319 KILLED IN PENITENTIARY FIRE

MAD PRISON BREAK ATTEMPTED AT COLUMBUS, O

150 MORE CONVICTS, BADLY INJURED, MAY DIE IN HOSPITALS

ANOTHER HUNDRED, SLIGHTLY BURNED, REQUIRED ONLY FIRST AID TREATMENT

Columbus, O., April 22.—(U.P.)—Two deaths among prisoners in hospitals brought the total of dead in the Ohio state penitentiary fire to 319 today.

Columbus, O., April 22.—(U.P.)—The toll in the state penitentiary fire reached 317 at 8:15 A. M. today when three more bodies were removed to the temporary morgue at the state fair grounds.

Burned to death in a mad attempt by convicts to effect a wholesale prison break, all but 35, who were beyond recognition, had been identified.

One hundred and fifty more convicts, so badly injured that a majority may die, were in Columbus hospitals. Another hundred, slightly burned or injured in the frantic attempt to escape from the barred trap of the west cell house, required only first aid treatment.

Nearly 1,000 armed officers patrolled the walls and yards of the prison today. Included in the troops, equipped for any kind of warfare, were 600 soldiers of the federal garrison at Fort Hayes and the 166th Ohio national guard infantry, 200 regular guards, and 150 city policemen, including 100 ordinarily detailed to night duty.

The blaze, one of three supposedly set by vengeful lifers, was part of a plot to throw the penitentiary into an uproar and, in the excitement, to seize control of the institution.

It was 5:40 P. M. when the flames were discovered in cell unit 1, an unused prison block. Wooden stairways, constructed as a part of temporary repairs, fed the blaze, and it spread to cell units G and H, where the prisoners were returning from supper to be locked in their cells.

This was the moment chosen by the conspirators for their mutiny. The red tongue of flame, creeping up the stairs of cell unit 1, was to have been the signal for revolt. Instead, it lighted a pyre, welding the locks and fusing steel bars that held nearly 1,000 men prisoners within a trap of their own making.

Inside the fiery pit the fear-crazed convicts beat against the doors and shrieked their demands for release. Alternately they cursed and prayed to the guards, outside, to strike off the locks and let them batter their way to freedom. But the guards, standing grimly by their orders, refused. They feared a general uprising, releasing nearly 5,000 convicts, was in the making.

The blaze raged upward through the open corridors of the cell house, finding little timber to feed upon until it struck the heavy roof and ate its way through. The screaming men below began to writhe from showers of hot embers, and redoubled their imprecations.

Epics of heroism—and of cowardice—were written in the three-hour chapter of horrors. There were men who exalted a life of crime on the altar of sacrifice for their fellows. There were others, desperate, cruel men in life, who cringed before danger and ran away.

Not all the prisoners had been locked up when the first danger signal was sounded. These the guards tried hastily to herd into their cells. The fear of plot is always uppermost in an institution where escape is in the mind of every man.

Outside, the prison siren was splitting the air with shrieks for assistance. It brought the fire department, every available policeman in Columbus, and a company of federal troops from Fort Hayes. It called national guardsmen from their homes to mobilize in the state armory and move, in full battle equipment, to the scene of disaster.

It brought ten ambulances and a dozen army trucks, and called to duty scores of physicians and nurses. Every agency for the protection of life and property was on guard within an hour.

Within the warden's office, two lines of strategy were mapped out.

The first campaign was to subdue the fire.

The second was to see that of these nearly 5,000 men, one-tenth of them apparently doomed to death and torture, the remainder should not tear open the very walls in their rage and fear, and produce the greatest jail break in history.

Flames burst through the roof. Shortly after the first fire was discovered, a second blaze, in the Catholic chapel, was found and promptly extinguished. But by this time a majority of the more hardened and reckless criminals, still hoping for escape, were still plotting, and a group of lifers struck down their guards, made a break for the wooden mills, 300 yards away, and put it to the torch.

Warden E. P. Thomas ordered the gates opened for the fire department. The fire fighters entered the yard, only to find themselves face to face with a jeering, crazy mob of rioters who threatened to tear them to pieces if they attempted to extinguish the

HOOVER WARNS OF GOVERNMENT FACING DEFICIT

Washington, April 22.—(U.P.)—The government is faced with a deficit of twenty or thirty million dollars for the next fiscal year, President Hoover warned today in a letter to Chairman Jones of the senate appropriations committee and Chairman Wood of the house appropriations committee.

Pointing to the many small appropriation bills now pending in congress, Mr. Hoover told the fiscal leaders of the legislative branch of the government:

"I know you will agree with me there is cause for real alarm in the situation as we cannot contemplate any such deficit."

blazes. The fire department was forced to withdraw, temporarily.

Arrival of the national guardsmen reinforcing the police and federal troops, who had thrown a steel ring around the prison, gave sufficient strength to the authorities to make their first drive against the 4,000 milling convicts. They went in, with bayonets, and cleared the way for the firemen. The blaze in the wooden mills was soon extinguished and there had been no wholesale jail delivery.

The guards at this point, unable to stand by and see their charges die without a chance, plunged into the cell house and dragged many screaming men to safety. They had been released from the law that says they must keep a man in his cell "at all costs."

It was here that "Wild Bill" Cronking, "desperado," gave his life for society. Twelve times he made his way into the furnace, each time coming out, choking and coughing, with the limp body of a friend. He made a thirteenth attempt to go in—and collapsed, dying.

It was here, too, that Frank Ward, once a policeman, found regeneration. Seizing an axe, he hacked away at the locks of half a dozen cell doors, liberating their shrieking inmates and driving them into the open.

And there was "Big Jim" Morton, a desperate Cleveland bank robber, who broke out of his own cell with his bare hands, and—although he had a chance to flee to the yard—stayed in the blazing cell house to rescue his companions. When he could find no more living, he carried out two dead. At 8:30 P. M., with the flames of the west cell block dying down, the horror was heightened by collapse of the lighting system. A short circuit, caused by falling timbers, threw the prison into darkness, save for the flicker of the blaze and a few scattered searchlights.

Out of this darkness came the hoarse cries of men both inside the smouldering building and in the yard. Then the lights flashed on again, in festoons of temporary bulbs, draped from the walls like decorations at a garden party.

The bravest of the heroes, guards recalled today, were members of "Company K," a group of the most incorrigible prisoners in the penitentiary.

Isolated from the other prisoners as bachelors of discontent, trouble and rebellion, they have inspired riots, fires and escapes in their time. But last night their courage equalled their boldness of the past. They fought, side by side, with the guards, to rescue their unfortunate fellow prisoners, and to do so they went through the dangers that none but men inspired would have dared face.

Meanwhile, those thousands of prisoners who were loose in the great yard, including many who had thrust themselves by main strength out of the burning cell block, were gradually being driven into a compact crowd where they could be put under the muzzles of the machine guns.

Orders were issued to the soldiers to fire at the first overt act by this crowd. Then, in an act of greater kindness, and realizing the psychology of its effect on the terror-stricken inmates, groups of guards and officials went into the yard and among the men with reassuring words. The fire was over, the convicts were told, and there was no danger. But the reassuring word carried also a warning. There must be no attempt to break, and any such attempt would be met by volleys.

The tumult died down, and the shouting, both of crazed fear and rage, came to an end.

Gradually the prison yard took on a semblance of order. The dead were wrapped in blankets and laid in silent rows. Long lines of ambulances rolled up to the prison doors and departed with their loads of burned—and many dying—prisoners.

Telegrams from all sections of the country, where convicts had relatives who "still cared," were pouring into the warden's office during the night and continued all day. To each inquirer, a carefully worded message was sent.

A broadcast direct from the prison, giving the world a picture of the terror within the walls, and yet intended to reassure relatives of the imprisoned men that a majority were safe, was sent out during the evening.

The morning light fell unhindered (Continued on page 8)

Nomination of Parker to U. S. Supreme Court To Be Taken Up By the Senate Next Friday

UNFAVORABLE REPORT FROM THE COMMITTEE

10 TO 6 VOTE OF JUDICIARY COMMITTEE FOR AN ADVERSE REPORT

BELIEVED 50 VOTES OF SENATE ALREADY LINED UP FOR REJECTION OF PARKER

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, April 22.—The nomination of Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina to the U. S. supreme court, carrying an unfavorable report from the senate judiciary committee, probably will be taken up by the senate next Friday or Saturday, Republican Floor Leader Watson said today.

Watson's statement was made as Parker's advocates were striving to find a way out of the hole into which they were pitched by the 10 to 6 vote of the judiciary committee for an adverse report.

There was hope in the republican senatorial camp, but no knowledge, that Parker would withdraw. President Hoover is adamant in his refusal to withdraw the nomination. Parker, saying nothing, is pursuing his duties as judge of the fourth circuit within 200 miles of Washington.

But the interested leaders are planning to prevent an open contest on the senate floor at a time when it might damage candidates in the coming primaries. They know the nomination apparently faces rejection because 50 votes are said to be aligned against Parker and because the nomination involves issues raised by organized labor and the organized negroes.

In furtherance of this plan, a motion may be made to redraft the nomination to the judiciary committee whence it came yesterday with recommendations for rejection.

The idea behind the motion is that Parker should be heard before he is convicted. That idea was rejected by the committee, 10 to 4, before it voted 10 to 6 against Parker, but the action then was taken on the basis of a telegram from Parker saying he would be glad to appear if invited. The committee did not choose to invite him. If he should request an opportunity to appear, the situation would be different, those behind the plan say. They hope he will request an audience.

Another suggestion is that the nomination be permitted to remain indefinitely on the senate calendar. Within a month or six weeks the senate is scheduled to adjourn. By that time the primaries and elections will be over, Parker may have received a recess appointment from the president, and there might be a better chance of confirmation.

This suggestion has its drawbacks, however, because of the pressure of business now before the supreme court. Parker's opponents do not believe the senate could assume the responsibility of keeping a place vacant

National Report Made on Columbus Prison Says It Is Ancient

New York, April 22.—(U.P.)—Overcrowded conditions at the Ohio state penitentiary, scene of last night's holocaust, are discussed in the annual report for 1929 of the National Society of Penal Information.

The report states: "The ancient plant at the state penitentiary in Columbus, one of the largest prisons in the country, suffers from a condition of overcrowding worse than that in any other prison."

"The need of another institution in the Ohio penal system has been apparent for many years but the state is only now taking steps to alleviate the conditions at Columbus."

TWO OF ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE KILLED

PLANE CRASHES FROM AN ALTITUDE OF 200 FEET NEAR REGINA, SASK.

VICTIMS ARE SERGEANT J. C. RICHARDS AND H. W. CAREW

Regina, Sask., April 22.—(U.P.)—Sergeant J. C. Richards and H. W. Carew, both of the Royal Canadian Air Force, were killed today when their plane crashed from an altitude of 200 feet in the outskirts of Regina.

They were enroute from Winnipeg to Saskatoon and had spent the night in Regina. The plane took off after a long run on the Regina flying field and reached an altitude of 200 feet. Witnesses said they believed the motor stalled and the plane slipped into a nose dive and crashed. They said Carew was unable to pull the plane out of the spin because of the low altitude.

Richards and Carew were to make an aerial photographic survey in the region near Saskatoon.

ATTEMPT TO OVERRIDE HOOVER'S VETO FAILS

Washington, April 22.—(U.P.)—An attempt to override President Hoover's veto of an act authorizing coinage of silver half dollars for the 75th anniversary of the Gadsden purchase, failed in the house today.

The attempt was the first of its kind during the Hoover administration, on the court until next year when the court already is overtaxed with cases. With all these varying phases, the situation probably will be allowed to simmer at least until Friday or Saturday to see what develops.

EYE WITNESS TELLS STORY OF GREAT FIRE

FLAMES SWEEP ALONG CELL CORRIDOR LIKE A CHARGING MONSTER

FOUR IN CELL TURNED ON A WATER TAP AND SAVED SELVES FROM DEATH

By CHARLES OLIVER
Ohio State Penitentiary, Columbus, As Told to the United Press

April 22.—You can't imagine the horror of it!

I was on the fourth tier of section H, directly beneath the place where the fire broke out.

The fire swept up like some charging monster. It was upon us before we scarcely realized what was happening. The flames were sweeping in great sheets along the cell block and it began to get blistering hot.

There were four of us in our cell and it got hot as hell. We were scared. I'll admit it, scared half to death. We started screaming to be turned loose—to be let out of that cell.

We yelled and yelled at the guards to come and let us out. Some of the boys who were yelling didn't use nice language, but we wanted to get out.

It seemed as if we were going to be roasted alive. It got hotter and hotter. I hope I never go to hell if it's that hot.

We finally hit on the idea of turning on the water tap in our cell. We let it run wide open and pretty soon the floor was covered with water. We laid down and rolled around in the water trying to get cooled off.

Prisoners all over the cell block were screaming to best hell. We would put our faces down in the water and roll around in it and splash it on each other.

We had given it up. We expected to die, lying there in the water with flames crackling all around us. Then at last a couple of prisoners came along and knocked the lock off our cell door with a sledge hammer.

We dashed into the hall—a hall of flame. We helped knock the locks off three cells and helped the men get out. Before we could get out to safety the flames were scorching us, singeing the hair off our heads.

It's my personal opinion that the fire started from a short circuit. They've been having trouble with the lights. They were all the time going on and off for no apparent reason.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., April 22.—(U.P.)—Originally scheduled to go to trial in September, Elmer S. Huckins, charged with obtaining money by false pretenses, may be prosecuted during the present term of court, it appeared today.

ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY WORK TO START SOON

Milwaukee, Wis., April 22.—(U.P.)—Actual construction work on the St. Lawrence waterway will begin within a few months, Dr. Roy S. MacEwee, internationally known marine engineer, predicted last night.

Dr. MacEwee, who came here from Cambridge, Mass., to discuss harbor development projects with the Milwaukee common council, said that the St. Lawrence project is closer to realization than most people think. The project, he predicted, will be completed by 1938. The engineer believes that 1930 will be a banner year for United States shipping interests because of improved harbors and increase of cargoes. Excessive rail rates, he said, will be another aid to increased shipping during 1930.

MAN WHO MADE RELIGION HIS 'RACKET' KILLED IN CHICAGO

Chicago, April 22.—(U.P.)—A man who made religion his "racket" while he posed as a holy man and a healer among Chicago Italians, lay dead in the morgue today as police sought his murderer.

George Lucido, 38, the "holy man," was shot four times last night and died shortly after he staggered into a watchman's station for help.

When officers went to his apartment seeking evidence they discovered there an altar in a miniature chapel fitted out with candles, prayer books and other sacred articles.

Much of the paraphernalia was found to have been stolen from churches.

ENGINEERS BEGIN SURVEY OF CEDAR RIVER POLLUTION

Austin, Minn., April 22.—(U.P.)—Engineers of the metropolitan drainage commission today began a survey of pollution in the Cedar river in northern Iowa and southern Minnesota.

J. A. Childs, chief engineer of the commission, said the engineers first will inspect the sewage disposal system of the Hormel Packing company, Austin. An inspection also will be made at the company's plant at Mason City, Iowa.

Childs said the commission may recommend establishment of sewage treatment and disposal plants at both Austin and Mason City.

Elmer T. McCleary, Head of Steel Company, Dies

Youngstown, Ohio, April 22.—(U.P.)—Elmer T. McCleary, president of the newly organized Republic Steel corporation, died here today.

Death came after he failed to rally from an operation performed last night. The steel corporation president had been ill for several weeks, but his condition did not become serious until after he was removed to the hospital Sunday.

Garage Mechanic Hanged for Slaying an American

Southampton, England, April 22.—(U.P.)—William Henry Podmore, 30-year-old garage mechanic, was hanged in Winchester prison today for the murder of Vivian Messiter, 57, formerly of Denver, Colo., and New York.

Podmore was convicted last March 8. Messiter was killed fully two months before his body was found on Jan. 10, 1929.

One Killed, One Injured in Grade Crossing Mishap

ENGLAND GIVES UP SUPREMACY OF THE SEAS

ABSOLUTE PARITY BETWEEN NAVIES OF GREAT BRITAIN AND THE U. S.

LIMITS NAVIES OF BRITAIN, U. S. AND JAPAN UNTIL YEAR 1936

By WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. James Palace, London, April 22.—The London naval treaty of 1930, in which Great Britain formally relinquishes supremacy of the seas which she has ruled for so long, was signed today.

The treaty recognizes absolute parity between the navies of Britain and the United States; limits the navies of Britain, the United States and Japan until 1936; imposes a battleship-building holiday on the five chief sea powers; humanizes submarine warfare and limits the size and armaments of submarines.

The treaty was signed by Great Britain, the United States, Japan, France and Italy. The latter two, however, did not participate in the limitations sections, having been unable to agree on their quarrel over parity.

Although the treaty achieves only three-power limitation, it regulates the navies of the three greatest sea powers, and is the first comprehensive naval limitation treaty in history, covering warships of every class.

It was the culmination of the five-power conference began with high hopes 92 days ago, on Jan. 21. The final plenary session of the conference and the signing of the treaty took place in the dingy magnificence of Queen Anne's drawing room of the palace.

Although one of the most important international treaties of a generation was being signed, only a handful of spectators gathered outside the palace in the warm sunshine to watch the delegates arrive.

In addition to the failure to achieve a five-power agreement, the treaty falls in the amount of tonnage reduction hoped for by the United States and England at the start. France refused to participate in the full five-power treaty because the British refused to guarantee French security. Italy refused full participation because France rejected the principle of Italian parity with her. They signed the portions of the treaty agreeing to a battleship holiday until 1936, humanization of submarine warfare, limitation of submarine size and armament and other minor matters, promising to continue their negotiations towards eventually joining the treaty fully.

The signing of the treaty was effected with business-like precision. Secretary Stimson signed first for the United States, listed alphabetically as "America." He affixed his name at 12:40 P. M. Ambassador Charles G. Dawes signed a minute later.

Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, signed at 12:44 P. M. He was followed a minute later by MacDonald for Great Britain and the others in order, the chief signers being Giuseppe Sigani, for Italy; Reijiro Wakatsuki, Japan; James Fenton, for Australia; Philippe Roy, Canada; Sir Atul Chandra Chatterjee, Indian; Timothy Smiddy, Irish Free State; T. M. Wilford, New Zealand; C. A. Water, South Africa.

The signing ended at 12:54 P. M., having lasted only 15 minutes. It started when MacDonald announced in a solemn voice, "We have now reached the moment for signing the treaty."

Stimson arose, walked around the table, seated himself in the gilt and red armchair, dipped a new gold pen in the ink and signed. He smiled as he arose and walked slowly back to his place. Dawes followed immediately, tugging at his coat lapels and signing earnestly.

The Americans used individual gold pens in gold-plated holders, purchased in London this morning in behalf of Stimson by Capt. Eugene Regnier, his aide. Both will retain the pens, Stimson presenting his to President Hoover as a souvenir. The Japanese used individual Japanese pens and the British fountain pens made in Britain. The last to sign was Matsuzo Nagai, of Japan.

SCRAP OF PAPER IS ONLY CLUE TO ROBBER'S IDENTITY

Robbinsdale, Minn., April 22.—(U.P.)—A scrap of paper bearing the name R. E. Mosher, Minneapolis, today was the only clue to the identity of a collegiate appearing bandit who was killed after he robbed the Security State Bank of $5,000 Saturday night. The paper was found in a bill fold carried by the bandit and it was learned a person of that name lived at 3125 Holmes avenue, Minneapolis, about a year ago.

Nomination of Parker to U. S. Supreme Court To Be Taken Up By the Senate Next Friday

UNFAVORABLE REPORT FROM THE COMMITTEE

10 TO 6 VOTE OF JUDICIARY COMMITTEE FOR AN ADVERSE REPORT

BELIEVED 50 VOTES OF SENATE ALREADY LINED UP FOR REJECTION OF PARKER

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, April 22.—The nomination of Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina to the U. S. supreme court, carrying an unfavorable report from the senate judiciary committee, probably will be taken up by the senate next Friday or Saturday, Republican Floor Leader Watson said today.

Watson's statement was made as Parker's advocates were striving to find a way out of the hole into which they were pitched by the 10 to 6 vote of the judiciary committee for an adverse report.

There was hope in the republican senatorial camp, but no knowledge, that Parker would withdraw. President Hoover is adamant in his refusal to withdraw the nomination. Parker, saying nothing, is pursuing his duties as judge of the fourth circuit within 200 miles of Washington.

But the interested leaders are planning to prevent an open contest on the senate floor at a time when it might damage candidates in the coming primaries. They know the nomination apparently faces rejection because 50 votes are said to be aligned against Parker and, because, the nomination involves issues raised by organized labor and the organized negroes.

In furtherance of this plan, a motion may be made to reconsider the nomination to the judiciary committee whence it came yesterday with recommendations for rejection.

The idea behind the motion is that Parker should be heard before he is convicted. That idea was rejected by the committee, 10 to 4, before it voted 10 to 6 against Parker, but the action then was taken on the basis of a telegram from Parker saying he would be glad to appear if invited. The committee did not choose to invite him. If he should request an opportunity to appear, the situation would be different, those behind the plan say. They hope he will request an audience.

Another suggestion is that the nomination be permitted to remain indefinitely on the senate calendar. Within a month or six weeks the senate is scheduled to adjourn. By that time the primaries and elections will be over, Parker may have received a recess appointment from the president, and there might be a better chance of confirmation.

This suggestion has its drawbacks, however, because of the pressure of business now before the supreme court. Parker's opponents do not believe the senate could assume the responsibility of keeping a place vacant on the court until next year when the court already is overtaxed with cases. With all these varying phases, the situation probably will be allowed to simmer at least until Friday or Saturday to see what develops.

National Report Made on Columbus Prison Says It Is Ancient

New York, April 22.—(U.P.)—Overcrowded conditions at the Ohio state penitentiary, scene of last night's holocaust, are discussed in the annual report for 1929 of the National Society of Penal Information.

The report states: "The ancient plant at the state penitentiary in Columbus, one of the largest prisons in the country, suffers from a condition of overcrowding worse than that in any other prison."

"The need of another institution in the Ohio penal system has been apparent for many years but the state is only now taking steps to alleviate the conditions at Columbus."

TWO OF ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE KILLED

PLANE CRASHES FROM AN ALTITUDE OF 300 FEET NEAR REGINA, SASK.

VICTIMS ARE SERGEANT J. C. RICHARDS AND H. W. CAREW

Regina, Sask., April 22.—(U.P.)—Sergeant J. C. Richards and H. W. Carew, both of the Royal Canadian Air Force, were killed today when their plane crashed from an altitude of 200 feet in the outskirts of Regina.

They were enroute from Winnipeg to Saskatoon and had spent the night in Regina. The plane took off after a long run on the Regina flying field and reached an altitude of 200 feet.

Witnesses said they believed the motor stalled and the plane slipped into a nose dive and crashed. They said Carew was unable to pull the plane out of the spin because of the low altitude.

Richards and Carew were to make an aerial photographic survey in the region near Saskatoon.

EYE WITNESS TELLS STORY OF GREAT FIRE

FLAMES SWEEP ALONG CELL CORRIDOR LIKE A CHARGING MONSTER

FOUR IN CELL TURNED ON A WATER TAP AND SAVED SELVES FROM DEATH

By CHARLES OLIVER
Ohio State Penitentiary Convict
As Told to the United Press

Ohio State Penitentiary, Columbus, April 22.—You can't imagine the horror of it!

I was on the fourth tier of section H, directly beneath the place where the fire broke out.

The fire swept up like some charging monster. It was upon us before we scarcely realized what was happening. The flames were sweeping in great sheets along the cell block and it began to get blistering hot.

There were four of us in our cell and it got hot as hell. We were scared, I'll admit it, scared half to death. We started screaming to be turned loose—to be let out of that cell.

We yelled and yelled at the guards to come and let us out. Some of the boys who were yelling didn't use nice language, but we wanted to get out.

It seemed as if we were going to be roasted alive. It got hotter and hotter. I hope I never go to hell if it's that hot.

We finally hit on the idea of turning on the water tap in our cell. We let it run wide open and pretty soon the floor was covered with water. We laid down and rolled around in the water trying to get cooled off.

Prisoners all over the cell block were screaming to best hell. We would put our faces down in the water and roll around in it and splash it on each other.

We had given it up. We expected to die, lying there in the water with flames crackling all around us. Then at last a couple of prisoners came along and knocked the lock off our cell door with a sledge hammer.

We dashed into the hall—a hall of flame. We helped knock the locks off three cells and helped the men get out.

Before we could get out to safety the flames were scorching us, singeing the hair off our heads.

It's my personal opinion that the fire started from a short circuit. They've been having trouble with the lights. They were all the time going on and off for no apparent reason.

ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY WORK TO START SOON

Milwaukee, Wis., April 22.—(U.P.)—Actual construction work on the St. Lawrence waterway will begin within a few months, Dr. Roy S. MacElwee, internationally known marine engineer, predicted last night.

Dr. MacElwee, who came here from Cambridge, Mass., to discuss harbor development projects with the Milwaukee common council, said that the St. Lawrence project is closer to realization than most people think. The project, he predicted, will be completed by 1938.

The engineer believes that 1930 will be a banner year for United States shipping interests because of improved harbors and increase of cargoes. Excessive rail rates, he said, will be another aid to increased shipping during 1930.

MAN WHO MADE RELIGION HIS 'RACKET' KILLED IN CHICAGO

Chicago, April 22.—(U.P.)—A man who made religion his "racket" while he posed as a holy man and a healer among Chicago Italians, lay dead in the morgue today as police sought his murderer.

When officers went to his apartment seeking evidence they discovered there an altar in a miniature chapel fitted out with candles, prayer books and other sacred articles.

Much of the paraphernalia was found to have been stolen from churches.

ENGLAND GIVES UP SUPREMACY OF THE SEAS

ABSOLUTE PARITY BETWEEN NAVIES OF GREAT BRITAIN AND THE U. S.

LIMITS NAVIES OF BRITAIN, U. S. AND JAPAN UNTIL YEAR 1936

By WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. James Palace, London, April 22.—The London naval treaty of 1930, in which Great Britain, formally relinquishes supremacy of the seas which she has ruled for so long, was signed today.

The treaty recognizes absolute parity between the navies of Britain and the United States; limits the navies of Britain, the United States and Japan until 1936; imposes a battleship-building holiday on the five chief sea powers; humanizes submarine warfare and limits the size and armaments of submarines.

The treaty was signed by Great Britain, the United States, Japan, France and Italy. The latter two, however, did not participate in the limitations sections, having been unable to agree on their quarrel over parity.

Although the treaty achieves only three-power limitation, it regulates the navies of the three greatest sea powers, and is the first comprehensive naval limitation treaty in history, covering warships of every class.

It was the culmination of the five-power conference began with high hopes 92 days ago, on Jan. 21. The final plenary session of the conference and the signing of the treaty took place in the dingy magnificence of Queen Anne's drawing room of the palace.

Although one of the most important international treaties of a generation was being signed, only a handful of spectators gathered outside the palace in the warm sunshine to watch the delegates arrive.

In addition to the failure to achieve a five-power agreement, the treaty falls in the amount of tonnage reduction hoped for by the United States and England at the start. France refused to participate in the full five-power treaty because the British refused to guarantee French security. Italy refused full participation because France rejected the principle of Italian parity with her. They signed the portions of the treaty agreeing to a battleship holiday until 1936, humanization of submarine warfare, limitation of submarine size and armament and other minor matters, promising to continue their negotiations towards eventually joining the treaty fully.

The signing of the treaty was effected with business-like precision. Secretary Stimson signed first for the United States, listed alphabetically as "America." He affixed his name at 12:40 P. M. Ambassador Charles G. Dawes signed a minute later.

Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, signed at 12:44 P. M. He was followed a minute later by MacDonald for Great Britain and the others in order, the chief signers being Giuseppe Sigani, for Italy; Reijiro Wakatsuki, Japan; James Fenton, for Australia; Philippe Roy, Canada; Sir Atul Chandra Chatterjee, Indian; Timothy Smiddy, Irish Free State; T. M. Wilford, New Zealand; C. M. Water, South Africa.

The signing ended at 12:54 P. M., having lasted only 15 minutes. It started when MacDonald announced in a solemn voice, "We have now reached the moment for signing the treaty."

Stimson arose, walked around the table, seated himself in the gilt and red armchair, dipped a new gold pen in the ink and signed. He smiled as he arose and walked slowly back to his place. Dawes followed immediately, tugging at his coat lapels and signing earnestly.

The Americans used individual gold pens in gold-plated holders, purchased in London this morning in behalf of Stimson by Capt. Eugene Regnier, his aide. Both will retain the pens, Stimson presenting his to President Hoover as a souvenir. The Japanese used individual Japanese pens and the British fountain pens made in Britain. The last to sign was Matsuzo Nagai, of Japan.

The paper was found in a bill fold carried by the bandit and it was learned a person of that name lived at 3125 Holmes avenue, Minneapolis, about a year ago.

SCRAP OF PAPER IS ONLY CLUE TO ROBBER'S IDENTITY

Robbinsdale, Minn., April 22.—(U.P.)—A scrap of paper bearing the name R. E. Mosher, Minneapolis, today was the only clue to the identity of a collegiate appearing bandit who was killed after he robbed the Security State Bank of $5,000 Saturday night.

The paper was found in a bill fold carried by the bandit and it was learned a person of that name lived at 3125 Holmes avenue, Minneapolis, about a year ago.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

April 22, 1905

Good Friday is being observed as a legal holiday in Minnesota for the first time today. While it has been customary for banks and public offices to close, not until this week, when Governor Johnson signed the bill abolishing days of grace, did the day become a legal holiday.

E. W. Crane left this noon for Minneapolis where he will make his home in the future. Mrs. Crane and her mother Mrs. Pratt will leave for there tomorrow.

Rev. H. W. Knowles left for Pillager this afternoon to officiate at the funeral of the late Ed Snow, who was killed a few days ago by a vicious broncho.

E. Von Boeckman left this afternoon for Minneapolis. This morning he was driven out to the R. R. Wise farm and the latter is very much taken up with the sugar beet raising proposition.

Brainerd is threatened with another roller skate craze. It is understood that negotiations are pending whereby Manager Brady, of the John Coates Liquor company will open Gardner hall in a short time as a roller rink.

About 50 contracts were signed yesterday by farmers in this vicinity with the Minnesota Sugar Company to raise beets. The company will furnish these farmers with the seed and give them instructions and even send them machinery to help out. W. H. Cleary will act as a sort of go-between and any farmer wishing to start in the beet raising industry may get in touch with him.

The meeting held yesterday was a great success and it is thought the move taken will bear good fruit in this county for a long time to come.

Spain Glories in Past

Americanization has reached many parts of Europe, but in Spain its influence is less apparent. Pride of birth, pride in history, pride in great works of art and literature and pride in cities whose beauty is unequalled, have kept the Spaniards aloof from imitation of other nations. It is true that there is a subway in Madrid and a broadcasting station at Seville, but the poetic charm of old Spain is still in evidence everywhere.—Exchange.

April 22, 1905

Good Friday is being observed as a legal holiday in Minnesota for the first time today. While it has been customary for banks and public offices to close, not until this week, when Governor Johnson signed the bill abolishing days of grace, did the day become a legal holiday.

CHORAL CLUB TO PRESENT CONCERT

Advanced Piano Pupils of Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone on Program May 5

On the evening of May 5 will be held a joint concert of the Brainerd Choral club and the two advanced piano pupils of Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone. Berenice Le Mire of Pequot, and Edith Brandt of Pillager. To those who are acquainted with the work of the Choral and of Mrs. Johnstone's pupils, the evening promises to be one of distinct pleasure. Those who are to hear them for the first time will enjoy a program of diversity, and yet one presenting nothing but the very highest type of music.

Mrs. Johnstone has had noted success with her pupils, and numbers among them many who have achieved wide distinction. Alice Regina Johnson, who has made a decided place for herself in the best music circles of Chicago, is a former pupil of Mrs. Johnstone. Last year three were presented in recital at the Congregational church, William McClenahan, Virginia Halliday and Katherine Albright. These three are now attending Carleton college, two of them majoring in music under Miss Sloss. The pupils to be presented this year are extraordinarily talented. Miss Le Mire has already achieved distinction among state musicians as pianist for the Little Symphony, a summer organization of a group of members of the Minneapolis Symphony. Miss Brandt is graduating this year from the Pillager high school. Last year she assisted in Mrs. Johnstone's recital and aroused much interest and very favorable comment. The numbers these two young ladies will play in the concert May 5 are of the extremely brilliant type.

The director of the Choral is Miss Effie Drexler, well known in Brainerd as director of the Legion Auxiliary band, of the music of the Presbyterian church, and of the group of singers known as the Choral club. Accompanist is Mrs. Louis Knudsen, whose fine work with the piano and pipe organ is well recognized. The group of musicians in the choral has gained a state-wide reputation as an organization presenting the finest in vocal music, and who have achieved that reputation through their interpretation, blend and absolute pitch.

The Choral will present four groups of songs in the concert May 5. The first will be a classic group of Schumann Mendelssohn numbers, including the well loved "Traumerei" and "In Wings of Song." The second group will include an exquisite composition by Clokey, "Flower of Dreams." There will be two numbers in the third group, both to be presented with violin obligato. The classic group will be of four songs, one, "The Night has a Thousand Eyes," to be sung without accompaniment.

FLOYD B. OLSON IS TO SPEAK TONIGHT

County Attorney of Hennepin County to Take as Topic "Menace of Monopoly"

AT HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

Assisting in Program Will Be Legion Auxiliary Band, Harmony Four and Swedish Glee Club

Appearing under the auspices of the Brainerd Independent Merchants Association, Hon. Floyd B. Olson, county attorney of Hennepin county, will take as his topic, "The Menace of Monopoly," the program starting at 8 o'clock this evening at the high school auditorium. The public is cordially invited to attend. A large attendance is expected.

Local talent will assist, the numbers including selections by the American Legion Auxiliary band, the Harmony Four and the Swedish Glee club. E. O. Anderson will direct the glee club which will give a group of six songs, in English and Swedish.

Dr. A. A. Steinfeldt will be host at a duck dinner for the gubernatorial candidate and his party when they arrive in the city late this afternoon. Dr. Steinfeldt has a longer acquaintance with Mr. Olson than any other Brainerd man, for it dates back to nearly 30 years ago when they were newsboys in Minneapolis.

ODD FELLOWS TO MEET TOMORROW

Representatives of Seven Lodges to Celebrate Founding of Order

GRAND OFFICERS COMING

Election of District Deputy Grand Master to Be Main Business

Representatives from seven lodges of Odd Fellows will meet at Brainerd Odd Fellows hall on Wednesday evening, April 23, for the annual meeting of District No. 14, composed of lodges in Brainerd, Little Falls, Crosby, Ironton, Deerwood, Aitkin and Palisade.

Election of a District Deputy Grand Master to succeed G. O. Bacon, Brainerd, incumbent, will be the main order of business. Grand officers from Minneapolis, Ironton and Wells have been invited to be present.

The occasion is also the anniversary of the founding of the order in the United States and a suitable program has been prepared for its observance.

Crow Wing County Garden Flower Society In Timely Suggestions

Plant onion sets in the open ground at any time now. They are very rugged and will stand cold snaps. Plant the little sets about three inches apart, in rows about 12 inches apart.

Garden peas may also be planted at this time. Plant these three inches deep, covering them with two inches of soil and fill in the trench as the plants grow taller.

This is a good time to transplant and separate Rhubarb roots. Prepare the bed with fertilizer; cover with a layer of soil; and plant the roots a couple of feet apart in the rows.

Watch carefully all seedlings that are being raised in the house. The soil must never be allowed to dry out, neither must it be kept too wet. Overheating is also bad. The tiny seedlings may be cultivated carefully to a good advantage.

Transplant early, any trees or shrubs that are to be moved. Be sure to have the hole both wide enough and deep enough to accommodate the plant.

Get out your window and porch boxes, lawn vases, etc. If they have not been painted, freshen them up at once, place them in their permanent summer positions and fill them with finely sifted garden soil. Fertilizer should be placed in them, several weeks before planting.

Your seedlings in flats or pots may be benefited by placing them out of doors on warm days. Those in hotbeds or coldframes by raising the sash whenever it is safe. In this way they will gradually become accustomed to outdoor conditions.

Allow about two weeks for Salvia seed to start. Portulaca, Coleus, Cleome and Honest, require about 10 days; and Balsam seeds start in about eight days from date of sowing. Have patience with seeds of Aquilegia, Berberis and Asparagus, for these are slow to germinate. They usually require about one month to start into growth.

For the average garden in this community, a commercial fertilizer of 3-12

3 or 4-8-4 is probably the best. This can be obtained at any seed store. This should be applied at the rate of four pounds per 100 square feet and spaded under as soon as possible. Any of the other fertilizers may be used in about the same amount. Manure at its best is a poor fertilizer. It contains only one of the necessary elements, Nitrogen. However it does add humus to the soil.

Nine Words on Grain of Rice

Mr. F. O. Roberts, minister of pensions, has received an inscribed grain of rice in a glass tube, accompanied by a magnifying glass, from a museum at Delhi. The inscription on the gift reads: "May God bless a long, happy, and prosperous life."—London Tit-Bits.

Old Greek Celebrations

To celebrate a victory the ancient Greeks placed laurel wreaths on the brow of the victors and erected small winged figures called Victories to commemorate some great event.

Lion Should Defeat Grizzly

In an open fight between a full-grown grizzly and a full-grown lion, the victory would depend somewhat upon circumstances. As a general rule, the lion, in addition to strength and vigor, has a degree of cunning not found in a grizzly bear. Consequently, he would have the advantage over the bear and, in most cases, would come out the victor.

CHORAL CLUB TO PRESENT CONCERT

Advanced Piano Pupils of Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone on Program May 5

On the evening of May 5 will be held a joint concert of the Brainerd Choral club and the two advanced piano pupils of Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone. Berenice Le Mire of Peguot and Edith Brandt of Pillager. To those who are acquainted with the work of the Choral and of Mrs. Johnstone's pupils, the evening promises to be one of distinct pleasure. Those who are to hear them for the first time will enjoy a program of diversity, and yet one presenting nothing but the very highest type of music.

Mrs. Johnstone has had noted success with her pupils, and numbers among them many who have achieved wide distinction. Alice Regina Johnson, who has made a decided place for herself in the best music circles of Chicago, is a former pupil of Mrs. Johnstone. Last year three were presented in recital at the Congregational church, William McClenahan, Virginia Halliday and Katherine Allbright. These three are now attending Carlton college, two of them majoring in music under Miss Sloss. The pupils to be presented this year are extraordinarily talented. Miss Le Mire has already achieved distinction among state musicians as pianist for the Little Symphony, a summer organization of a group of members of the Minneapolis Symphony. Miss Brandt is graduating this year from the Pillager high school. Last year she assisted in Mrs. Johnstone's recital and aroused much interest and very favorable comment. The numbers these two young ladies will play in the concert May 5 are of the extremely brilliant type.

The director of the Choral is Miss Effie Drexler, well known in Brainerd as director of the Legion Auxiliary band, of the music of the Presbyterian church, and of the group of singers known as the Choral club. Accompanist is Mrs. Louis Knudsen, whose fine work with the piano and pipe organ is well recognized. The group of musicians in the choral has gained a state-wide reputation as an organization presenting the finest in vocal music, and who have achieved that reputation through their interpretation, blend and absolute pitch.

The Choral will present four groups of songs in the concert May 5. The first will be a classic group of Schumann Mendelssohn numbers, including the well loved "Traumerei" and "In Wings of Song." The second group will include an exquisite composition by Clokey, "Flower of Dreams." There will be two numbers in the third group, both to be presented with violin obligato. The closing group will be of four songs, one, "The Night has a Thousand Eyes," to be sung without accompaniment.

FLOYD B. OLSON IS TO SPEAK TONIGHT

County Attorney of Hennepin County to Take as Topic "Menace of Monopoly"

AT HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

Assisting in Program Will Be Legion Auxiliary Band, Harmony Four and Swedish Glee Club

Appearing under the auspices of the Brainerd Independent Merchants Association, Hon. Floyd B. Olson, county attorney of Hennepin county, will take as his topic, "The Menace of Monopoly," the program starting at 8 o'clock this evening at the high school auditorium. The public is cordially invited to attend. A large attendance is expected.

Local talent will assist, the numbers including selections by the American Legion Auxiliary band, the Harmony Four and the Swedish Glee club. E. O. Anderson will direct the glee club which will give a group of six songs, in English and Swedish. Dr. A. A. Steinfeldt will be host at a duck dinner for the gubernatorial candidate and his party when they arrive in the city late this afternoon. Dr. Steinfeldt has a longer acquaintance with Mr. Olson than any other Brainerd man, for it dates back to nearly 30 years ago when they were newsboys in Minneapolis.

Crow Wing County Garden Flower Society In Timely Suggestions

Plant onion sets in the open ground at any time now. They are very rugged and will stand cold snaps. Plant the little sets about three inches apart, in rows about 12 inches apart.

Garden peas may also be planted at this time. Plant these three inches deep, covering them with two inches of soil and fill in the trench as the plants grow taller.

This is a good time to transplant and separate Rhubarb roots. Prepare the bed with fertilizer; cover with a layer of soil; and plant the roots a couple of feet apart in the rows.

Watch carefully all seedlings that are being raised in the house. The soil must never be allowed to dry out, neither must it be kept too wet. Overheating is also bad. The tiny seedlings may be cultivated carefully to a good advantage.

Transplant early, any trees or shrubs that are to be moved. Be sure to have the hole both wide enough and deep enough to accommodate the plant.

Get out your window and porch boxes, lawn vases, etc. If they have not been painted, freshen them up at once, place them in their permanent summer positions and fill them with finely sifted garden soil. Fertilizer should be placed in them, several weeks before planting.

Your seedlings in flats or pots may be benefited by placing them out of doors on warm days. Those in hotbeds or coldframes by raising the sash whenever it is safe. In this way they will gradually become accustomed to outdoor conditions.

Allow about two weeks for Salvia seed to start. Portulaca, Coleus, Cleome and Honest, require about 10 days; and Balsam seeds start in about eight days from date of sowing. Have patience with seeds of Aquilegia, Berberis and Asparagus, for these are slow to germinate. They usually require about one month to start into growth.

For the average garden in this community, a commercial fertilizer of 3-12-

3 or 4-8-4 is probably the best. This can be obtained at any seed store. This should be applied at the rate of four pounds per 100 square feet and spaded under as soon as possible. Any of the other fertilizers may be used in about the same amount. Manure at its best is a poor fertilizer. It contains only one of the necessary elements, Nitrogen. However it does add humus to the soil.

Lion Should Defeat Grizzly

In an open fight between a full-grown grizzly and a full-grown lion, the victory would depend somewhat upon circumstances. As a general rule, the lion, in addition to strength and vigor, has a degree of cunning not found in a grizzly bear. Consequently, he would have the advantage over the bear and, in most cases, would come out the victor.

The Northern Proposed Rail Merger

THE proposed merger of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railways as planned by the two roads and the proposed merger adding these two lines to a system headed by the Burlington, appear to have encountered so much opposition in various places that neither proposition appears capable of attaining success.

President Budd of the Great Northern, according to newspaper reports, may devote the summer to supervising rehabilitation of the Soviet Russian railway system and this shows that had there been any chance of success for a Northern merger, he would have stayed in America to follow every phase of the movement.

The consolidation of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railways, like all mergers whether in manufacturing, shipping, rail or merchandising lines, would have effected a reduction in operating forces, officers, etc. There is enough unemployment at present without further adding to this situation by merging railroads.

Aroused by the contemplated merger, many northwestern states appealed to their congressmen. The Couzens resolution to suspend railroad mergers until congress can legislate to regulate holding companies, was endorsed yesterday before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee by Frank McManamy, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission. McManamy told the committee present, laws cannot stop the company from merging through holding companies. In the House a like resolution was introduced by Congressman Harold Knutson, of the sixth district.

A United Press report states further that Congress will have to pass laws to unscramble the railway companies if they continue to merge under holding companies as they have during the past two years, according to McManamy's statement.

McManamy said he is the only member of the commission who favors the Couzens resolution, but that the commission is unanimous in supporting that part of the resolution which is designed to control holding companies.

The witness was questioned about the proposed merger of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads. He said there was no reason why the consolidation should not be consummated in from 60 to 90 days if the roads comply with the commission's recommendations.

Railroad Efficiency Gains

DURING 1929 the railroads were 25.5 per cent more efficient than in 1922, according to an exhaustive survey which has recently been completed, says the Manufacturer and Industrial News Bureau.

The survey combined 13 efficiency factors, for each of which a separate index was made, using the average of the five years from 1920 to 1924 as a base. The average of the 13 individual indexes thus became the general index of operating efficiency.

The factors included freight car-miles per day, net ton-miles per car-day, net tons per freight train, fuel consumption, locomotive-miles per day for both freight and passengers, percentage of serviceable freight cars and locomotives, and the speed of trains. Every important phase of railroad transportation was considered.

No statistics are needed, however, to show that, since the war, railroad service has continually improved. The vast expansion made by manufacturing industries of all kinds is a living proof of the efficiency and economy of our transportation system.

G. W. Dyer, professor of economics at Vanderbilt university, recently observed that the story of the world's industrial development, as well as political, social and educational development, is to a large degree the story of transportation. The progressive spirit of the American railroads has done much to make the industrial age possible.

Unemployment Resulting From Machines

ERNEST J. EBERLING, professor of economics, Vanderbilt university, writing in Current History, says the present problem of unemployment in industry is due fundamentally to the replacement of the worker by the machine. It is undoubtedly true that much of the increase in unemployment is due to the technological changes in industry. Much has been said for the past year or two about the alarming increase in unemployment because of the substitution of machines for men. There is no question but that machines are every day displacing men and women who have spent years in developing skill and ability necessary to their crafts. It is said that these persons displaced by machines have gone into other lines of work, such as the manufacture and distribution of rayon, radios, oil products, motor accessories and other new products. An investigation recently made by the Institute of Economics shows, however, that displaced workers have great difficulty in finding employment. Almost one-half of the workers who were known to have been discharged by certain firms during the year preceding were still without jobs when interviewed by investigators from that institute. Of those still unemployed over 8 per cent had been out of work for a year and about one-half had been idle for more than three months.

Some Quirks of the Census

CENSUS taking in Brainerd developed some odd quirks. In spite of all the publicity accorded the question of school teachers, that they were to be counted in Brainerd, it is declared several turned in their statement to their home town, preferring to be counted there instead of at Brainerd where they are employed and where they are paid their salaries, and where to all intents and purposes they maintain their places of residence.

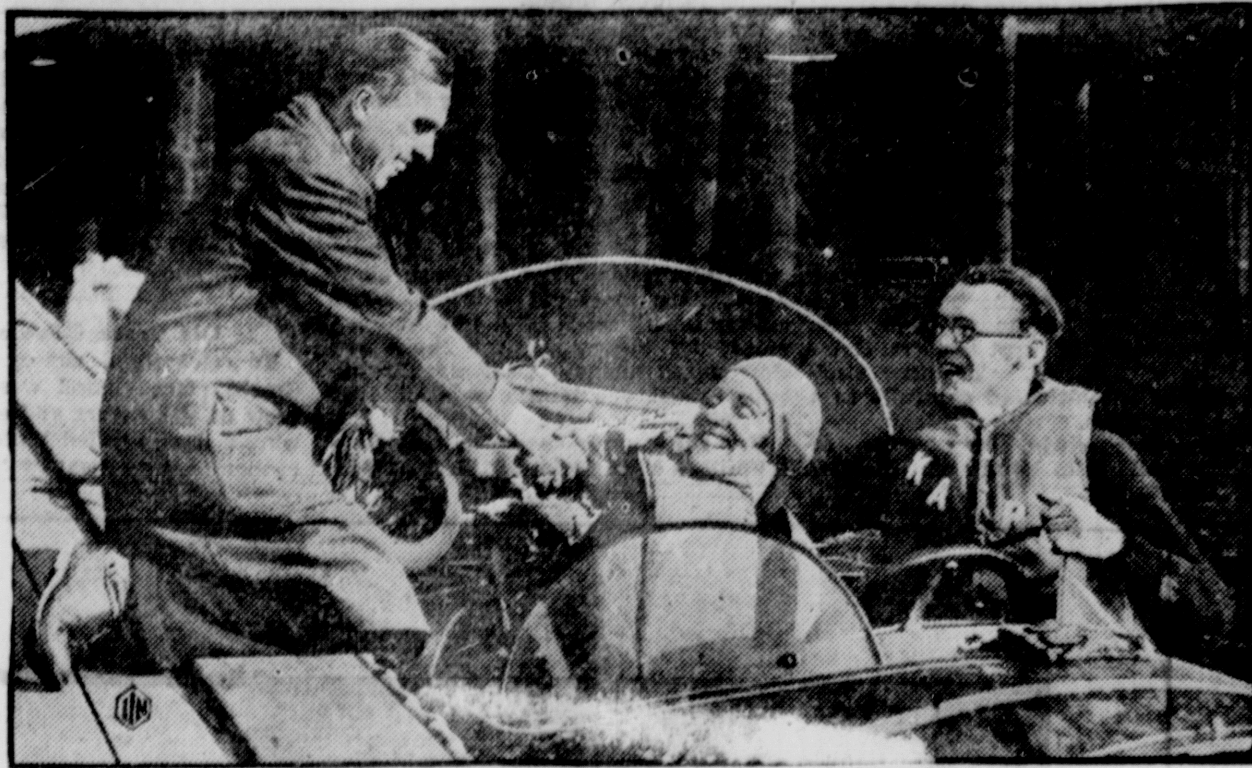

Several instances were also found of men employed in Brainerd, who live here and earn their wages in Brainerd, who from a mistaken sense of home town patriotism, preferred being numbered with the original home than being enumerated with Brainerd.

The Left Inside Turn

THE "left inside turn" in the navigation of cars around certain specified streets has been looked upon with favor by the city council. It is claimed that tourists of the larger cities are used to this turn and become confused when they enter towns where it is not used.

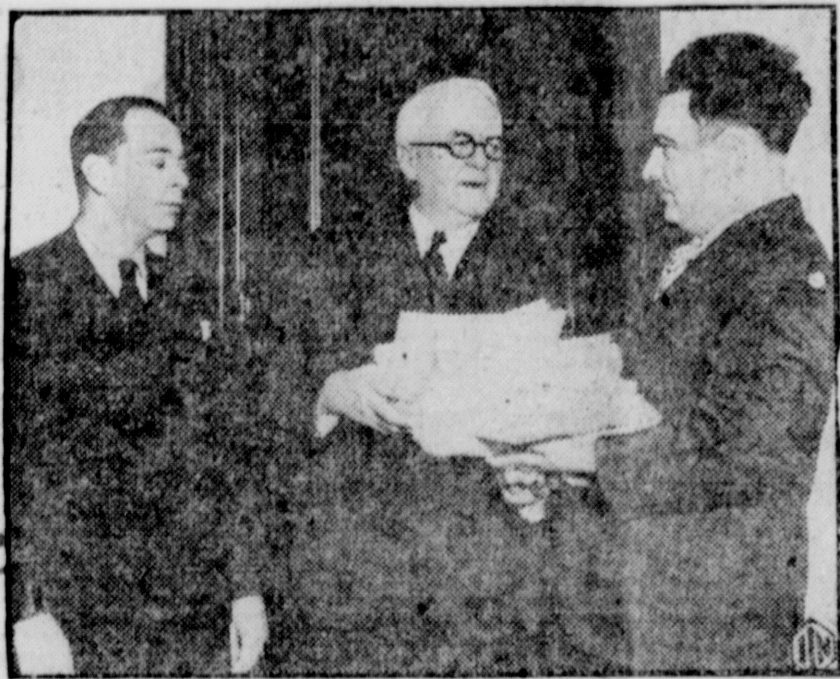

If placed in effect in Brainerd markers should call it to the attention of motorists. Those in favor of this turn claim it expedites traffic.

CHARGE THAT PUBLIC SENTIMENT WAS OF THE 'MANUFACTURED' KIND

Washington, April 22.—(UP)—Charges that the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment "manufactured" public sentiment against the coast guard shooting in the Black Duck case last December, were made before the senate lobby committee today in its investigation of prohibition lobbying. Henry H. Curran, president of the association, vigorously denied the charge, saying the people of New England were thoroughly aroused over the shooting in which there were several deaths.

Big kernels in small shells

In addition to the advertisements of the big department stores, of the grocery and hardware stores, of the millinery, clothing and shoe stores, there is another kind of advertising that is being read more and more by readers of this newspaper. That kind of advertising is the Classified Columns.

A man or woman wants a job. They read the "Help Wanted" columns and probably insert an advertisement of their own under "Positions Wanted." Employer and job seeker soon get together to the benefit of both. A man may want an automobile—possibly he cannot afford a new car, so he looks in the "For Sale" columns and finds just the car at the price he can afford to pay. Some one has lost a pocketbook, valuable papers or even a pet dog. The "Lost and Found" columns soon bring loser and finder together.

The Classified Columns are so arranged that any one can readily find what he seeks quickly—business news, machinery and tools, household goods, horses, dogs, cats, canaries, etc. They enable you to locate what you are looking for in short order. So in reading advertising do not overlook the classified columns—the individual advertisements do not take up much room, but like the meaty nut they may contain a big kernel in a small shell—just for you.

CHARGE THAT PUBLIC SENTIMENT WAS OF THE 'MANUFACTURED' KIND

Washington, April 22.—(U.P.)—Charges that the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment "manufactured" public sentiment against the coast guard shooting in the Black Duck case last December, were made before the senate lobby committee today in its investigation of prohibition lobbying. Henry H. Curran, president of the association, vigorously denied the charge, saying the people of New England were thoroughly aroused over the shooting in which there were several deaths.

Big kernels in small shells

In addition to the advertisements of the big department stores, of the grocery and hardware stores, of the millinery, clothing and shoe stores, there is another kind of advertising that is being read more and more by readers of this newspaper. That kind of advertising is the Classified Columns.

A man or woman wants a job. They read the "Help Wanted" columns and probably insert an advertisement of their own under "Positions Wanted." Employer and job seeker soon get together to the benefit of both. A man may want an automobile—possibly he cannot afford a new car, so he looks in the "For Sale" columns and finds just the car at the price he can afford to pay. Some one has lost a pocketbook, valuable papers or even a pet dog. The "Lost and Found" columns soon bring loser and finder together.

The Classified Columns are so arranged that any one can readily find what he seeks quickly—business news, machinery and tools, household goods, horses, dogs, cats, canaries, etc. They enable you to locate what you are looking for in short order. So in reading advertising do not overlook the classified columns—the individual advertisements do not take up much room, but like the meaty nut they may contain a big kernel in a small shell—just for you.

LABARBA FIGHTS HIS GREATEST BATTLE DEFEATING TAYLOR

BOUT BEGAN AND ENDED SENSATIONALLY

LA BARBA SURPRISED TAYLOR BY WILLINGNESS TO SLUG IN FIRST ROUND

TAYLOR TOOK FIRST 3 ROUNDS, LA BARBA THE BALANCE AND VICTORY

By BERT DEMBY (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, April 22.—Ability to get up off the floor and come back to victory today placed Fidel La Barba, pride of the Pacific coast, a step farther along the path of the featherweight boxing championship.

LaBarba, who gave up the flyweight championship to obtain an education and took on so much weight at Stanford University that he came back to the ring as a featherweight, last night fought the greatest battle of his career to defeat Buddy Taylor, the Terre Haute Terror, in ten rounds by a decision.

The fight began and ended sensationally.

LaBarba surprised Taylor with a willingness to slug in the first round. Buddy measured the Italian and shot over a right cross. Fidel landed on his face and it appeared he was out. But he rolled over and got up by the time the referee had counted seven.

Fidel went to his corner in a daze and in the next round took one on the jaw which staggered him. Again it was Taylor's round, and the third also went to him, by a close margin.

LaBarba rallied in the fourth, took that round by a wide margin and also outscored Taylor in the fifth, sixth and seventh.

LaBarba took the eighth and ninth and the tenth was a slugging match, with each fighter trying to score a knockout.

The fight was the first of Promoter Jack Dempsey's elimination series to obtain a contender for featherweight champion, Bat Battalino.

Dempsey was elated today, having finally put over a winner in his promotional efforts in Chicago. Last night he made $6,600.

DIAMONDBALL OPENS IN CITY; SINCLAIRS NOSED OUT BY 10-9 SCORE

The Bye Clothing Co. kittenball team were victors in the first game of the season, over the Sinclair Oil team, last evening in a hard-fought encounter.

With old man Mercury down around 38 degrees at 7 and a husky wind blowing, the two teams entered the field in a burst of color. The Bye team had on their new Bradley slip-over shirts of a deep blue. In front a large letter "B" and in back the name of the firm, "Bye Clothing Co." in large white letters. The Oilers had their usual red shirts, which added greatly to the appearance of the lineup.

The first inning netted the Sinclairs one run, while the Byes crossed the plate six times.

The second inning the Sinclair boys tallied five runs while the Byes were held scoreless.

The third inning the Sinclairs again found the pill to collect three hits and three runs, while the Byes with four hits, one a home run, netted four runs.

The fourth and fifth innings only saw three men on either side face the pitchers with no success.

"Ble" Ericsson twirled for the Byes and Wise and Becker for the Sinclairs.

PREPARING FOR ANNUAL DISTRICT AND DUAL MEETS

INTERCLASS MEET BELIEVED TO BE ONE OF FIRST EVENTS TO BE RUN OFF

DUAL MEET AT LITTLE FALLS, FOLLOWED BY DISTRICT MEET AND REGIONAL

(By Sports Editor of Braininor)
Candidates for the Brainerd high track team are at present working out daily, despite the sharp April breezes, in systematic fashion in the way of preparation for the annual district meet as well as dual encounters with other highs.

In all probability the following program awaits the trackmen:
The Inter-class meet, the first of events to be run off.

A dual meet with Little Falls high, then follows the invitational meet to be staged at Aitkin high.

The grand finale of district competition, at the district meet.

Winners of the district affair then compete at the regional tournament for further honors.

Letters are to be awarded to those who score a total of eight points in the interclass or upon the placing in district or still the scoring of three points in a dual meet.

The "preparation" schedule for the sprinters for the present week follows:
Monday—body building work, 5 minutes; jog quarter (440) to warm up; 6 to 8 starts (first 3 easy and the rest with the gun); run 50 yards; rest; jog easy 440.

Tuesday—jog quarter mile; run two fast 100's; jog 220; run 300 yards at quarter mile pace.

Wednesday—easy work-out—(a) —body building and just slight jogging; (b) —position in starting.

Thursday—jog quarter, use high knee action at four or five different places; body-building, 3 minutes; four or five starts; work on starting position; two fast 50's with rest between; 200 at three-quarter speed; jog a slow quarter mile.

Friday—limber up good; 3 or 4 starts; run 2 100's; 60 yards at quarter speed; 40 yards at top speed; rest between each one; jog 330 yards.

Saturday—5 minutes body-building; jog quarter; perfect starts; run trial time 50 yards; rest; swing through 120 yards at seven-eighths speed; rest; swing through 220 at seven-eighths speed.

Pole vaulters, shot putters, high jumpers and the like work out along the same lines in order to get their muscles to the peak of perfection.

Watching the Scoreboard

(By United Press)

Major league baseball clubs will play their final set of opening games today and with the end of the hackneyed inaugural programs, the pennant races will settle down to serious business.

Nine of the clubs already have played their home inaugurals and six more, the Yankees, Cubs, Browns, Indians, Phillies and Braves are scheduled to get the ceremonies out of the way today. The Pittsburgh Pirates will be idle today but complete the list of openings against Cincinnati tomorrow.

Hal Carlson held the Cincinnati Reds to five hits yesterday as his mates got their heavy artillery into action and the Cubs won, 9 to 1. Homers by Hack Wilson, Gabby Hartnett and Clyde Beck featured the 14-hit attack.

Del Bissonette drove in seven runs with a homer and a triple and the Brooklyn Robins scored their first victory of the year, defeating Boston, 15 to 8.

Home runs gave the New York Giants six runs in their 8 to 6 victory over the Phillies. Travis Jackson connected for the circuit twice, once with two men on base, and O'Farrell and Leach also hit a homer.

The Pittsburgh Pirates closed their first road trip with a 6 to 4 win over the St. Louis Cardinals. Brame pitched for the winners and held the Cards to one run in the first seven innings.

Clinton Brown pitched his first major league game yesterday and gave the Cleveland Indians a 6 to 1 win over the Detroit Tigers. The rookie, purchased from New Orleans, allowed only five hits.

Ted Lyons, Chicago White Sox pitching ace, scored the winning run in the Sox's 3 to 2 10-inning victory over St. Louis. The Texan tripled to open the tenth and scored on Smith's single.

ASSOCIATION TABS

Louisville, Ky., April 22.—Strong pitching was not enough to overcome the lack of batting punch in the Kansas City Blues here yesterday, and Louisville came through the game with a 2 to 1 victory. Dixie Davis and George Murray allowed only five hits while Deberry, Louisville moundsman, gave eight hits, winning on the offensive punch of his team.

Columbus, O., April 22.—Van Alstyne, Minneapolis hurler, was touched for 11 hits by Columbus here yesterday but was too good for F. Miller and Wykoff of Columbus and the Millers won, 8 to 3. The game was played on a soggy field.

Toledo, O., April 11.—Toledo batters were helpless before Milcy Moore, St. Paul, in the American Association game here yesterday and the visitors triumphed, 4 to 1. Ogden and Tate worked for Toledo but were unable to take the show from Moore who allowed only two hits to nine for St. Paul.

Milwaukee at Indianapolis, postponed, rain.

By HARDIN BURNLEY

"Midget" WOLGAST—COLORFUL NEW FLYWEIGHT CHAMP, WHO POSSESSES THE FASTEST LEFT HAND OF 'EM ALL!

INTEREST in flyweight boxers increased enormously and suddenly when Midget Wolgast, Philadelphia's wee wop, outpointed Black Bill of Cuba recently in fifteen sparkling rounds at Madison Square Garden. By doing so, the Midget won the world's flyweight championship so far as the New York State Athletic Commission is concerned. However, the National Boxing Association recognizes Frankie Genaro as holder of that title, and the New Jersey authorities accorded their own Willie La Morte that honor. Plans are being made to stage a series of eliminations between those three title-holders.

In the meanwhile, those of us who saw Wolgast clearly defeat the speedy Black Bill in their sen-celarity and accuracy. And there was much steam in them—only the crafty Cuban's knack of riding the smashes saving him from the count.

Wolgast's real name is Giuseppe La Scalza. He lives with his parents and their big family in Philadelphia. This miniature Carnera has been boxing about three years. In more than 110 bouts, he has lost but one—to Phil Tobias of Brooklyn. His best fighting weight now is 110 pounds.

Tom McArdle, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, who is arranging a Wolgast-Genaro battle for the near future, says that "Midget is the best flyweight I ever saw." And Thomas saw Jimmy Wilde and Pancho Villa in their prime!

Midget's left hooks to both head and body were the perfection of

PREPARING FOR ANNUAL DISTRICT AND DUAL MEETS

INTERCLASS MEET BELIEVED TO BE ONE OF FIRST EVENTS TO BE RUN OFF

DUAL MEET AT LITTLE FALLS, FOLLOWED BY DISTRICT MEET AND REGIONAL

(By Sports Editor of Brainierdian)
Candidates for the Brainerd high track team are at present working out daily, despite the sharp April breezes, in systematic fashion in the way of preparation for the annual district meet as well as dual encounters with other highs.

In all probability the following program awaits the trackmen:
The inter-class meet, the first of events to be run off.

A dual meet with Little Falls high. Then follows the invitational meet to be staged at Aitkin high.

The grand finale of district competition, at the district meet.

Winners of the district affair then compete at the regional tournament for further honors.

Letters are to be awarded to those who score a total of eight points in the interclass or upon the placing in district or still the scoring of three points in a dual meet.

The "preparation" schedule for the sprinters for the present week follows:

Monday—body building work, 5 minutes; jog quarter (440) to warm up; 6 to 8 starts (first 3 easy and the rest with the gun); run 50 yards; rest; jog easy 440.

Tuesday—jog quarter mile; run two fast 100's; jog 220; run 300 yards at quarter mile pace.

Wednesday—easy work-out—(a) body building and just slight jogging; (b) position in starting.

Thursday—jog quarter, use high knee action at four or five different places; body-building, 3 minutes; four or five starts; work on starting position; two fast 50's with rest between; 200 at three-quarter speed; jog a slow quarter mile.

Friday—limber up good; 3 or 4 starts; run 2 100's; 60 yards at quarter speed; 40 yards at top speed; rest between each one; jog 330 yards.

Saturday—5 minutes body-building; jog quarter; perfect starts; run trial time 50 yards; rest; swing through 120 yards at seven-eighths speed; rest; swing through 220 at seven-eighths speed.

Pole vaulters, shot putters, high jumpers and the like work out along the same lines in order to get their muscles to the peak of perfection.

Watching the Scoreboard

(By United Press)

Major league baseball clubs will play their final set of opening games today and with the end of the hackneyed inaugural programs, the pennant races will settle down to serious business.

Nine of the clubs already have played their home inaugurals and six more, the Yankees, Cubs, Browns, Indians, Phillies and Braves are scheduled to get the ceremonies out of the way today. The Pittsburgh Pirates will be idle today but complete the list of openings against Cincinnati tomorrow.

Hal Carlson held the Cincinnati Reds to five hits yesterday as his mates got their heavy artillery into action and the Cubs won, 9 to 1. Homers by Hack Wilson, Gabby Hartnett and Clyde Beck featured the 14-hit attack.

Del Bissonette drove in seven runs with a homer and a triple and the Brooklyn Robins scored their first victory of the year, defeating Boston, 15 to 8.

Home runs gave the New York Giants six runs in their 8 to 6 victory over the Phillies. Travis Jackson connected for the circuit twice, once with two men on base, and O'Farrell and Leach also hit a homer.

The Pittsburgh Pirates closed their first road trip with a 6 to 4 win over the St. Louis Cardinals. Brame pitched for the winners and held the Cards to one run in the first seven innings.

Clinton Brown pitched his first major league game yesterday and gave the Cleveland Indians a 6 to 1 win over the Detroit Tigers. The rookie, purchased from New Orleans, allowed only five hits.

Ted Lyons, Chicago White Sox pitching ace, scored the winning run in the Sox's 3 to 2 10-inning victory over St. Louis. The Texan tripped to open the tenth and scored on Smith's single.

ASSOCIATION TABS

Louisville, Ky., April 22.—Strong pitching was not enough to overcome the lack of batting punch in the Kansas City Blues here yesterday, and Louisville came through the game with a 2 to 1 victory. Dixie Davis and George Murray allowed only five hits while Deberry, Louisville moundsman, gave eight hits, winning on the offensive punch of his team.

Columbus, O., April 22.—Van Alstyne, Minneapolis hurler, was touched for 11 hits by Columbus here yesterday but was too good for F. Miller and Wykoff of Columbus and the Millers won, 8 to 3. The game was played on a soggy field.

Toledo, O., April 22.—Toledo batters were helpless before Milly Moore. St. Paul, in the American Association game here yesterday and the visitors triumphed, 4 to 1. Ogden and Tate worked for Toledo but were unable to take the show from Moore who allowed only two hits to nine for St. Paul.

Milwaukee at Indianapolis, postponed, rain.

By HARDIN BURNLEY

INTEREST in flyweight boxers—the speedy Black Bill in their sensational New York duel are convinced that the Midget deserves the crown. Unquestionably it was the fastest bout seen in years from beginning to end. Both boys were in great shape. Wolgast got a cut over his left eye through a collision in the first round, but that seemed to serve merely as a spur.

The Midget's marvelous left is a cross between a cobra's strike and a flash of lightning. Many old-timers assured The Sport Bug "it is the fastest left" they ever saw. And it had to be practically that in order to tag the truly Black Bill whose elusiveness was shadow-like.

Midget's left hooks to both head and body were the perfection of celerity and accuracy. And there was much steam in them—only the crafty Cuban's knack of riding the smashes saving him from the count.

Wolgast's real name is Giuseppe La Scalza. He lives with his parents and their big family in Philadelphia. This miniature Carneghi has been boxing about three years. In more than 110 bouts, he has lost but one—to Phil Tobias of Brooklyn. His best fighting weight now is 110 pounds.

Tom McArdle, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, who is arranging a Wolgast-Genaro battle for the near future, says that "Midget is the best flyweight I ever saw." And Thomas saw Jimmy Wilde and Pancho Villa in their prime!

VACATING STREET CAUSES ARGUMENT

East 20 Feet of First Street, Between
Juniper and Ivy, Discussed
Before Council

HEARING IS SET FOR JUNE 2

Memorial Arch Receives no Bidders,
Special Meeting to Consider Same

Residents of North First street between Ivy and Juniper streets lined up on two sides last evening to argue for and against the request made in a petition to vacate the east 20 feet of First street, abutting the west property lines of Block 114 or original plan of Brainerd.

The council adopted a resolution ordering the petition put on record with the city clerk and setting June 2 as the date for the hearing upon the same.

The request for the vacating of the 20 feet of street was made by W. D. McKay, Con O'Brien, and Andrew J. Gile. The petition explained that the reason for such vacation would be for the purpose of improving the street and adjacent properties.

With C. A. Ryan, attorney, their spokesman, a number of residents appeared before the council to protest the vacancy.

"If the street was reduced to 60 feet it would make the adjoining properties less desirable. It is a bad precedent to start vacating streets. It is to the interest of the public that the streets be uniform. Let Mr. McKay move his house back out of the street," contended Mr. Ryan.

Mr. O'Brien said that it would be impossible to make Bluff avenue a continuous street around the city and that he could not see how it would harm the street if the petition was granted.

W. D. McKay said that there were many streets in the residential section that were 66 feet in width and many less.

Since no bids were received last evening by the council for the erection of an ornamental arch at the North Sixth streets entrance at Juniper street the council deferred action in awarding the contract to Wednesday evening when a special meeting will be called.

Con O'Brien who will make the arch a gift to the city and the Park Board suggested that if no bids were received the work be done under the supervision of the city engineer by day labor.

Carl Wright of the Park Board explained that it was the wish of the board to have the entrance completed by Memorial Day. The cost will be approximately $1,000.

New Parking Angle
For the purpose of providing more room for cars passing each other on downtown streets the council voted to amend the parking angle ordinance, changing the angle from 45 degrees to 40 degrees with lines placed every eight feet. The ordinance as amended was given its first reading.

Streets affected as suggested are: Front street from Fourth to Eighth streets, Laurel from Fifth to Eighth streets, Sixth from the track to Maple street, Seventh from Front to the N. P. spur and Eighth from Front to the N. P. spur.

Tank Request Granted
The request by Hal Day to install an additional bulk storage tank at the Day Oil Co. bulk station on Front street was granted on motion of Aldermen Ernest Ritari and Frank E. Johnson subject to the approval of the city engineer.

Order Plat Survey
On motion of Aldermen Ernest Ritari and Harry W. Creger, City Engineer R. T. Campbell was instructed to survey a certain part of the Woodland Park addition, such property as not owned by the City Water and Light Department, showing the difference of two plats now in existence as affecting property owners in the addition.

Urges City Improvements
C. A. Ryan, president of the Chamber of Commerce and R. R. Gould, director, urged the council to do everything humanly possible in taking up the slack in the unemployment of the city.

"It behooves us individually and collectively to provide employment in view of the cut at the N. P. shops," Mr. Ryan said.

The two suggested that street improvements be made at this season to relieve the unemployment and said that the Chamber of Commerce would be behind any movement sponsored by the council in the way of spending money for improvements.

Would Inspect Dray Boxes
Applications for dray licenses were granted R. M. Mills, Harry Miles and Oscar Heady subject to inspection by the city engineer.

City Engineer Campbell urged that load containers of draymen be inspected. He complained that in past contents, which in several instances were being taken to the city dumping grounds, fell through and bounced over the boxes causing a littering of streets.

The O'Brien Stock Co. requested a change in their time of showing here to the week starting August 3. The request was granted.

The request of the Crow Wing Oil Co. for licenses to operate two additional pumps at the company's station at Sixth and Norwood was on motion granted.

R. L. Geist, manager of Hayes-Lucas Lumber Co. was granted permission to use Eighth and Maple streets temporarily for the unloading of building material to be used in the construction of the company's new lumber plant.

A building permit was granted the Russell Creamery to put an extension on the southeast of the lot known as 502 Front street, 20 feet by 15 feet to be built of cement blocks with brick facing on the outside.

"The purpose of this building," Frank Russell, local manager of the company wrote, "is for the storage of ice and rock salt so that we can tear down the present cement block building now on the rear of the same lot."

and the tar paper covered building on the lot known as 506 Front street.

J. O. Anderson was granted permission to operate two gasoline pumps on South Sixth street and the Tee Pee Oil Co. was granted licenses for three pumps at the corner of Sixth and Norwood streets.

Advertise Paving Work

On motion of Aldermen Ernest Ritari and W. J. Hall the council voted to advertise for bids, returnable May 19, for the paving of Front street from 8th to 9th streets, 9th from Front to Laurel streets and Laurel from 8th street to the Mill spur.

City Engineer Campbell estimated that the work would cost $19,000. The council specified that Brainerd labor only be employed and that the regular wage scale here be paid.

Order Probe Reopened

On motion of Aldermen Ritari and Chris Elvig the council voted to reconsider the matter of investigation of all city employees relative to their working at "side line" jobs and instructed President V. E. Quanstrom to appoint a committee of three in regards to this matter.

President Quanstrom appointed on this committee Aldermen Ritari, Lee and Elvig.

Left Inside Turn Up

On motion of Aldermen Hall and Ritari the police committee and City Attorney D. H. Fullerton were instructed to prepare an ordinance and present it at the next meeting covering a left inside turn at a number of the more congested intersections of the city.

The intersection chiefly considered is the one at Sixth and Laurel streets. The matter was considered in the face of complaints by the police department that tourists accustomed to driving in St. Paul and Minneapolis employed a left inside turn in Brainerd causing confusion here. It was further explained that St. Cloud, Little Falls and Wadena have already adopted the left inside turn.

Oak Parking Complaint

Alderman Hall reported the receiving of a number of complaints of cars blocking the highway on Oak street. He said that the complaints pertained to high school students parking their cars in front of the high school building.

The matter was referred to City Engineer Campbell to take up with the Board of Education with the view in mind of having students park their cars on side streets adjacent to the school rather than on Oak street.

Mayor Frank E. Little was requested to instruct the police department to start the stop and go sign at Sixth and Laurel streets in operation at 7 a. m. each day in place of 11 a. m. as has been the custom. This action was taken to eliminate confusion in the minds of motorists approaching the sign when it is not in operation.

The property committee was empowered to authorize the varnishing of the 53 ft. ladder of the Brainerd fire department and the purchase of new upholstery for the White fire truck.

City Attorney D. H. Fullerton was asked to revise the old ordinance specifying no parking within ten feet of a hydrant to establish a no parking zone of 15 feet there.

The requests pertaining to the fire department were made by Chief Frank Fuller who explained in connection with the no parking zone of hydrants that a state law specifies that 15 feet be set aside for no parking at hydrants.

Fire Chief Fuller reported that the buildings wrecked by fire on South Sixth street and on Mill street will be removed at an early date.

Operators of the Northeast Brainerd bus will be approached relative to the establishment of a new parking space other than their present one at Sixth and Laurel streets.

Mr. Green is a Chicago author, and he was the first client obtained by the local literary bureau. In his letter of April 19, to Mr. La Belle he writes:

Benefit Others; All
Members Busy

The local American Legion Auxiliary has put in an unusually active season, and among their activities since September, 1929 are the following:

Sponsoring the sale of Forget-me-nots which originated with the Disabled American Veterans. As their reward for this, they shared in the net proceeds, netting one-fourth of the total amount sold.

Last October the Auxiliary made a donation of $50 to the American Legion Auxiliary band. For the first time in the history of the local chapter, they put $50 in savings account, to which they hope to add a certain sum each year as a reserve fund. During this month they also sponsored the sale of a magazine on a 0-40 basis.

During the month of November came the Armistice banquet which was enjoyed by Legionnaires, Auxiliary members, Gold Star mothers, Auxiliary band members and the commander of the G. A. R. At this time vases, sewing baskets, bean bags, twine holders, pictures, door stoppers and other articles which had been made by service men in the Poppy work room at Minneapolis were purchased by Auxiliary members.

In December they put on the Christmas party for the "Trainees" children. Each child was presented with a toy, a gift and sacks of candy, nuts and apples. Following the presentation of gifts a lunch was served to the children and parents. A service man hospitalized at Hines hospital, Hines, Ill., was also remembered, as well as the veterans at the St. Cloud Veterans hospital where they sent 500 wrapped popcorn balls. A needy family near Cloverson was remembered with clothing and gifts during this month also.

With January, 1930 came the call to help the Indians in northern Minnesota, to which they contributed. They also purchased 200 Red Cross Christmas seals, gave a donation to the Red Cross, sent a donation to a needy family at McGrath and collected and shipped 35 pounds of clean rags for rugs to the St. Cloud Veterans hospital. As a successful close to the activities for January, a bridge and 500 party was given.

The month of February showed the following donations: Helen Hughes Heilscher fund, $5; Americanism fund, $5; Child Welfare fund, $5. Their order for poppies was also sent to the department headquarters.

In March the Auxiliary sponsored a bake sale.

MISS MARIE SLOSS IN CONCERT HERE

To Appear at High School Auditorium Under Brainerd Musical Club Auspices

BENEFIT OF PIANO FUND

Miss Sloss is Member of Carleton College Staff, Teaching Piano

The Brainerd high school is fortunate enough to have Marie Sloss, who is teaching piano at Carleton college, for a concert in the high school auditorium on the afternoon of April 30 for the benefit of the piano fund. The Brainerd Ladies' Musical club is sponsoring this concert which will be given for the general public. Miss Sloss has an enviable reputation as a pianist and comes very well recommended. Furthermore, she is giving this concert without any compensation to herself so that all of the money taken in may go into the fund for the grand piano. She has had wide experience as the following testimonial indicates:

Miss Marie Sloss is a young American pianist who has won distinction both at home and abroad. As a precocious child she received her early training in the middle west, later spending several years in Berlin at the time that metropolis was the mecca for the world's musical talent. During her residence there she appeared with outstanding success with numerous orchestras throughout Germany. Since her return she has toured the west with Alexander Salslavsky in trio concerts and for the past three seasons as pianist with the Pasmore Trio in Honolulu and the Central States.

With a repertoire extraordinarily large she is available as soloist with orchestra and in historical, classical, modern, miscellaneous or individual composer programs.

Her rare musical gifts, her vivacious and magnetic personality together with her splendid pianistic and musical equipment make her a favorite as soloist with music clubs, schools and colleges as well as with the general public.

VACATING STREET CAUSES ARGUMENT

East 20 Feet of First Street, Between

Before Council

HEARING IS SET FOR JUNE 2

Memorial Arch Receives no Bidders,

Residents of North First street between Ivy and Juniper streets lined up on two sides last evening to argue for and against the request made in a petition to vacate the east 20 feet of First street, abutting the west property lines of Block 114 or original plat of Brainerd.

The council adopted a resolution ordering the petition put on record with the city clerk and setting June 2 as the date for the hearing upon the same.

The request for the vacating of the 20 feet of street was made by W. D. McKay, Con O'Brien and Andrew J. Gile. The petition explained that the reason for such vacation would be for the purpose of improving the street and adjacent properties.

With C. A. Ryan, attorney, their spokesman, a number of residents appeared before the council to protest the vacancy.

"If the street was reduced to 60 feet it would make the adjoining properties less desirable. It is a bad precedent to start vacating streets. It is to the interest of the public that the streets be uniform. Let Mr. McKay move his house back out of the street," contended Mr. Ryan.

Mr. O'Brien said that it would be impossible to make Bluff avenue a continuous street around the city and that he could not see how it would harm the street if the petition was granted.

W. D. McKay said that there were many streets in the residential section that were 66 feet in width and many less.

Memorial Arch Considered

Since no bids were received last evening by the council for the erection of an ornamental arch at the North Sixth streets entrance at Juniper street, the council deferred action in awarding the contract to Wednesday evening when a special meeting will be called.

Con O'Brien who will make the arch a gift to the city and the Park Board suggested that if no bids were received the work be done under the supervision of the city engineer by day labor.

Carl Wright of the Park Board explained that it was the wish of the board to have the entrance completed by Memorial Day. The cost will be approximately $1,000.

New Parking Angle

For the purpose of providing more room for cars passing each other on downtown streets the council voted to amend the parking angle ordinance, changing the angle from 45 degrees to 40 degrees with lines placed every eight feet. The ordinance as amended was given its first reading.

Streets affected as suggested are: Front street from Fourth to Eighth streets, Laurel from Fifth to Eighth streets, Sixth from the track to Maple street, Seventh from Front to the N. P. spur and Eighth from Front to the N. P. spur.

Tank Request Granted

The request by Hal Day to install an additional bulk storage tank at the Day Oil Co. bulk station on Front street was granted on motion of Aldermen Ernest Ritari and Frank E. Johnson subject to the approval of the city engineer.

Order Plat Survey

On motion of Aldermen Ernest Ritari and Harry W. Greger, City Engineer R. T. Campbell was instructed to survey a certain part of the Woodland Park addition, such property as not owned by the City Water and Light Department, showing the difference of two plats now in existence as affecting property owners in the addition.

Urges City Improvements

C. A. Ryan, president of the Chamber of Commerce and R. R. Gould, director, urged the council to do everything humanly possible in taking up the slack in the unemployment of the city.

"It behooves us individually and collectively to provide employment in the wof the cut at the N. P. shops," Mr. Ryan said.

The two suggested that street improvements to be made at this season to relieve the unemployment and said that the Chamber of Commerce would be behind any movement sponsored by the council in the way of spending money for improvements.

Would Inspect Dray Boxes

Applications for dray licenses were granted R. M. Mills, Harry Miles and Oscar Haddy subject to inspection by the city engineer.

City Engineer Campbell urged that load containers of draymen be inspected. He complained that in past contents, which in several instances were being taken to the city dumping grounds, fell through and bounced over the boxes causing a littering of streets.

The O'Brien Stock Co. requested a change in their time of showing here to the week starting August 3. The request was granted.

The request of the Crow Wing Oil Co. for licenses to operate two additional pumps at the company's station at Sixth and Norwood was on motion granted.

R. L. Geist, manager of Hayes-Lucas Lumber Co. was granted permission to use Eighth and Maple streets temporarily for the unloading of building material to be used in the construction of the company's new lumber plant.

A building permit was granted the Russell Creamery to put an extension on the southeast of the lot known as 502 Front street, 20 feet by 15 feet to be built of cement blocks with brick facing on the outside.

"The purpose of this building," Frank Russell, local manager of the company wrote, "is for the storage of ice and rock salt so that we can tear down the present cement block building now on the rear of the same lot."

and the tar paper covered building on the lot known as 506 Front street.

J. O. Anderson was granted permission to operate two gasoline pumps on South Sixth street and the Tee Pee Oil Co. was granted licenses for three pumps at the corner of Sixth and Norwood streets.

Advertise Paving Work

On motion of Aldermen Ernest Ritari and W. J. Hall the council voted to advertise for bids, returnable May 19, for the paving of Front street from 8th to 9th streets, 9th from Front to Laurel streets and Laurel from 8th street to the Mill spur.

Order Probe Reopened

On motion of Aldermen Ritari and Chris Elvig the council voted to reconsider the matter of investigation of all city employees relative to their working at "side line" jobs and instructed President V. E. Quanstrom to appoint a committee of three in regards to this matter.

President Quanstrom appointed on this committee Aldermen Ritari, Lee and Elvig.

Left Inside Turn Up

On motion of Aldermen Hall and Ritari the police committee and City Attorney D. H. Fullerton were instructed to prepare an ordinance and present it at the next meeting covering a left inside turn at a number of the more congested intersections of the city.

Oak Parking Complaint

Alderman Hall reported the receiving of a number of complaints of cars blocking the highway on Oak street. He said that the complaints pertained to high school students parking their cars in front of the high school building.

The matter was referred to City Engineer Campbell to take up with the Board of Education with the view in mind of having students park their cars on side streets adjacent to the school rather than on Oak street.

Mayor Frank E. Little was requested to instruct the police department to start the stop and go sign at Sixth and Laurel streets in operation at 7 a. m. each day in place of 11 a. m. as has been the custom. This action was taken to eliminate confusion in the minds of motorists approaching the sign when it is not in operation.

The property committee was empowered to authorize the vanishing of the 55 ft. ladder of the Brainerd fire department and the purchase of new upholstery for the White fire truck.

City Attorney D. H. Fullerton was asked to revise the old ordinance specifying no parking within ten feet of a hydrant to establish a no parking zone of 15 feet there.

The requests pertaining to the fire department were made by Chief Frank Fuller who explained in connection with the no parking zone of hydrants that a state law specifies that 15 feet be set aside for no parking at hydrants.

Fire Chief Fuller reported that the buildings wrecked by fire on South Sixth street and on Mill street will be removed at an early date.

Operators of the Northeast Brainerd bus will be approached relative to the establishment of a new parking space other than their present one at Sixth and Laurel streets.

AUXILIARY HAS ACTIVE SEASON

Worthwhile Enterprises Put Over to Benefit Others; All
Members Busy

The local American Legion Auxiliary has put in an unusually active season, and among their activities since September, 1929 are the following:

Sponsoring the sale of Forget-me-nots which originated with the Disabled American Veterans. As their reward for this, they shared in the net proceeds, netting one-fourth of the total amount sold.

Last October the Auxiliary made a donation of $50 to the American Legion Auxiliary band. For the first time in the history of the local chapter, they put $50 in savings account, to which they hope to add a certain sum each year as a reserve fund. During this month they also sponsored the sale of a magazine on a 0-40 basis.

In December they put on the Christmas party for the Traime's children. Each child was presented with a toy, a gift and sacks of candy, nuts and apples. Following the presentation of gifts a lunch was served to the children and parents. A service man hospitalized at Hines hospital, Hines, Ill., was also remembered, as well as the veterans at the St. Cloud Veterans hospital where they sent 500 wrapped popcorn balls. A needy family near Cloverson was remembered with clothing and gifts during this month also.

With January, 1930 came the call to help the Indians in northern Minnesota, to which they contributed. They also purchased 200 Red Cross Christmas seals, gave a donation to the Red Cross, sent a donation to a needy family at McGrath and collected and shipped 35 pounds of clean rags for rugs to the St. Cloud Veterans hospital. As a successful close to the activities for January, a bridge and 500 party was given.

The month of February showed the following donations: Helen Hughes Heilscher fund, $5; Americanism fund, $5; Child Welfare fund, $5. Their order for poppies was also sent to the department headquarters.

In March the Auxiliary sponsored a bake sale.

BENEFIT OF PIANO FUND

Miss Sloss is Member of Carleton College Staff, Teaching Piano

The Brainerd high school is fortunate enough to have Marie Sloss, who is teaching piano at Carleton college, for a concert in the high school auditorium on the afternoon of April 30 for the benefit of the piano fund. The Brainerd Ladies' Musical club is sponsoring this concert which will be given for the general public. Miss Sloss has an enviable reputation as a pianist and comes very well recommended. Furthermore, she is giving this concert without any compensation to herself so that all of the money taken in may go into the fund for the grand piano. She has had wide experience as the following testimonial indicates:

Miss Marie Sloss is a young American pianist who has won distinction both at home and abroad. As a precocious child she received her early training in the middle west, later spending several years in Berlin at the time that metropolis was the mecca for the world's musical talent. During her residence there she appeared with outstanding success with numerous orchestras throughout Germany. Since her return, she has toured the west with Alexander Saslavsky in trio concerts and for the past three seasons as pianist with the Fasmone Trio in Honolulu and the Central States.

With a repertoire extraordinarily large she is available as soloist with orchestra and in historical, classical, modern, miscellaneous or individual composer programs.

Her rare musical gifts, her vivacious and magnetic personality together with her splendid pianistic and musical equipment make her a favorite as soloist with music clubs, schools and colleges as well as with the general public.

BAD breath spoils the sweetest smile and in all fairness to mouth washes you cannot expect them to correct such a condition when it arises from the stomach. You ought to be the first to suspect yourself. That disgusting "brown" morning taste in your mouth, a whitish or yellow-coated tongue—these are sure signs. Indigestion, bloating, gas, raisings of food and bowel disorders are other signs your stomach is upset and soured, producing a repulsive odor that is expelled every time you open your lips to speak or smile.

You need Tanlac, to properly correct this condition. First a tablespoon before meals will help cleanse your stomach and intestines of the accumulation of fermenting matter that befoils your breath; give you an appetite and help digest food. Make a trial of Tanlac for ten days—watch how that dark brown taste disappears—how much better you digest food—how your tongue clears up—how much better you feel generally. Tanlac is pleasant to take and inexpensive. As a stomach cleanser and rebuilder it has no equal. Get a bottle today at your druggist's. It must help you or money back. Accept no substitute.

SYNOPSIS.

ENROUTE to a friend's house, young and lovely Eve Reade, meets Kenneth Wilmer, famous artist. He persuades her to visit the Hollies, friends of his before going on to her destination. She falls asleep on a divan, to awake the next morning. Embarrassed for having spent the night, she leaves without saying good-bye. Ken visits her the following Sunday, and tells her he loves her. Her friend, Mary, warns Eve they are unsuited for one another. Next day Eve meets Norwood O'Rell, the author. He invites her to tea.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

CHAPTER VIII.

HE talked a great while and if the puzzlement failed to leave Eve's mind, he convinced her at least that Mary was all wrong. Mary was narrow; she was one of those afraid to see true. One would have to be a writer like Nory or an artist like Ken to understand wholly—but how easily to say there could be no contact between their kind and others!

She spoke of Ken at last. "I've met some of the Lane people," Nory said. "The Hollies and Kenneth Wilmer."

He gave her a sharp, quick look and little waves of heat burned her forehead to toes. "Wilmer? Oh, now I know who you are—"

He knew, she thought in a fury of shame, about last Friday night. "Probably everybody knew—everybody in the Lane. Knew that she and Kenneth sat up all night at the Hollies, perhaps that she had gone smoking away early in the morning like a little tramp hiding from painting fingers, shrinking before a living crin."

She got up stiffly, said she must "do come over for tea. You'd like Mary Stewart. And thank you for the afternoon."

He let her go with a careless nod and she knew the moment her foot was outside the door that he went back to gazing at the ceiling. What did he think about with his eyes so far away? Things he had seen high over the battlefields of France? The dream people he put on paper, ones he made live for those who did not know how to dream?

Well—she had had an adventure. She had met Norwood O'Rell and liked him. And she had loved the tea party—all but the end. And now she must go back to Mary...

But Eve wanted to see Ken. All at once it seemed she must see Ken. Hardly knowing what she did she turned eastward, went on down The Lane toward the Hollies.

In the clear light of late afternoon The Lane was not at all what it had seemed in the soft dimness last Friday night. Their it had been all enchantment, a magic village one entered by some open sesame, a sort of Peter Pan land where everything was eternally young and lovely and all dreams came true.

But now, walking slowly and still more slowly along the narrow ungravelled road, it seemed the make-believe was only make-believe after all. Trees to be sure were putting forth satin leaves and shrubs were wrapped in pink and red and golden fragrance, and this was as it should be.

But Eve felt a shiftness about the cottages. When she was a very little girl the uncles had built her a playhouse at one end of the garden; it had been a very nice playhouse, but she never could make it seem quite like a real dwelling as the uncles had intended she should.

Now she remembered this old failure, looking at the cottages. And how oddly and not quite reasonably they were trimmed up, one with door and window casings painted royal blue and another with black and orange hangings at the windows all out of concord with apple trees over the roof. Why didn't they have just plain little homely weather-brown buildings like Nory O'Rell's?

Disappointment sent her spirits down, down. Once breathless and tingling she had gone with Mary to the theatre where Mary's actor cousins were playing, only to have her bright hope of a thrill dimmed and crushed. For it was rehearsal afternoon and instead of sparkle and music and beauty there were merely rays of gray-blue light filtering about the edges of drawn blinds, the blank and somewhat dirty reverse sides of "props" and a man with a red face bawling directions at some tired men and women in ordinary street clothes.

The world behind the scenes—morning in Summer amusement parks—near-silly—venerable—pose. Eve thought of these miserably.

But suddenly a window above the blue door banged up, a tousled bobbed head was thrust forth and a hand waved in a cheerful way as a voice called "Hello!"

The head was withdrawn and the window slammed almost before Eve had a chance to answer, but she went on more briskly, heartened by such friendliness.

And then all at once quite as if a curtain had been rolled back between herself and The Lane, Eve saw it clearly for the first time.

She saw these people as Mary had said they were—different from herself and others, living in a Land of Illusion. A definite scheme of creation had placed them so and so they must remain, these writers and artists.

But their dreams, no doubt were as real to them as were everyday things to everyday folk. They possessed two worlds, actually, and because this was the fact they were able to take the rest of humanity out of monotonous-harassed living and into a fairer realm by means of color spread on canvas or words on paper.

And surely it was of tremendous importance that humanity be amused, helped to escape from life-as-it-is into the magic of life-as-it-might-be!

The vision took away what aye Eve had felt and filled her thoughts with affection. And this was to remain with her always and to reconcile a heritage of grim New England conscience with the easy tolerance of those who were to be her friends. Also, it was to make possible things which never could have happened to her otherwise.

The Holly cottage was more pre-tentious than any of the others excepting Nory O'Rell's, and Eve suspected this was because Elma and Chuck were not so thoroughly Bohemian, but that they preferred comfort to picturesqueness. But there was another, more practical reason for the really luxurious furnishings, the gardener at work in a corner of the grounds, the maid who came to light a fire as Elma took her guest into the long east room.

Elma mentioned this reason as she curled her plump figure into a leather chair and lighted a cigarette.

"Of course you'll stay for dinner," she said in her slightly dictatorial manner. "And don't mention bother—all I do about it is to get Chuck home before every thing's ruined."

"We're not like some of the crowd," she went on. "I believe in being on a payroll and having Chuck on one too; it's lots simpler than living like millionaires one while and passing the hat the next."

"I suppose," Eve asked timidly, "that happens sometimes? I've read about it—writers waiting for stories to be sold—starving in garrets—all that—"

"Bunk mostly," Elma declared. "All the burning genius stuff. Bad management is what's the trouble with them. Janet Kip down the road here—house with the blue door, did you notice—well, Jan does really good work when she wants to but she's lazy. She'll sell something and then won't do a tap till the last cent is gone and everybody's tired of having her come around to borrow an egg and a spoonful of flour. Jan's a fool."

Elma observed dispassionately. "She'll probably drop in this evening. We don't do much visiting through the day," she explained. "A sort of unwritten law here; work daytimes and play at night. You'd better meet all of us right away and now is as good a time as any."

Eve was willing enough to stay. She telephoned Mary who made no objection to her absence and went back to listen to Elma's talk about the colony, hoping she would mention Kenneth. But presently Chuck Holly arrived and, still giving her a languid hand, draped himself over the settle and demanded a drink, declaring that the damned old rag was going to Hades and he was quitting the job.

Elma laughed tolerantly and called the maid to bring cocktails. "He's a newspaper editor," she told Eve, "and he always talks like that once the paper's gone to press. You couldn't blow him loose from his job with dynamite."

Eve refused a cocktail, so Chuck drank hers as well as his own and seemed quite rested and gay when a young man and woman ventured in and begged permission to remain for dinner, since they asserted they hadn't a thing in the house to eat.

Elma introduced them as Ivy and Pierre Carr, and Eve studied them all through dinner. Ivy might have been pretty had she not seemed so discontented. She was sharp-tongued, preoccupied and worried. Her husband, who hardly spoke at all, looked exactly like pictures of Apollo Belvedere, with the same sharply-chiseled, too regular features, the cap of short, tight curls, the vacant expression.

Others happened along almost before they got up from the table. There was Janet Kip, a tousled, homely woman, thirty at least, who wore a batik smock and waved a tremendously long cigarette holder when she talked, together with a roving-eyed youth everyone called "Clay," whom Janet appeared to mother as if he had been a pet chick under her fuzzy wing.

It was from another guest, who romped in like a small, hot breeze that Eve was to learn how barbed may be the darts of jealousy—from Biff Devore, who was like a thin, burning flame before what she wanted.

For Kenneth came to the Hollies that evening. Kenneth came and went to Eve quickly, smiling into her eyes, whispering as she had dreamed he might.

But Biff Devore took him away. (To Be Continued Tomorrow.)

319 KILLED IN PENITENTIARY FIRE

upon the wreckage. The roof that had covered all was gone.

The fire had travelled rapidly over this roof from the new cell block, under construction, to the one in which the convicts met their deaths.

Water an inch deep covered cell floors.

A scaffold stood grotesquely up against the side of the cell block. Many saved their lives by climbing down it.

Many crossed the scaffold to the windows of the penitentiary in an unsuccessful effort to beat down the huge bars of the windows.

Narcissa Gaeta, another convict who carried 50 men from the cell block shambles, was discovered shivering in his cell on the third floor by Dr. Geo. W. Keil, chief prison physician. Gaeta was suffering from shock. He has been in the penitentiary since 1923 serving a 10 to 20 year sentence for robbery. His home is in Mexico.

Ben Rudner of Canton, serving a life sentence for complicity in the assassination of Don Mellett, Canton newspaper editor, worked untiringly at a pulmotor reviving men as they were carried from the burning cell block.

Warden P. E. Thomas suspended Guard Thomas Watkinson today, pending investigation of charges that Watkinson refused to relinquish to other guards keys to cells in which the convicts lost their lives.

The suspension was announced coincident with the arrival of Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, who returned by plane from a Virginia health resort. The governor immediately conferred with Thomas and members of his cabinet.

State Finance Director Harry D. Silver, the executive's spokesman, said later a thorough inquiry will be pushed in an effort to fix responsibility for the blaze and the terrible loss of life.

He said the state emergency board, now in session, has ample funds available for a general relief appropriation and that it would not be necessary to call a special session of the legislature.

The 4,000 convicts who escaped unscathed arose today in cells through which water sloshed an inch deep. The fury of the night had passed and only horror lingered. In the west cell block, where the fire started, little was left except blackened ruins.

County Prosecutor John K. Chester demanded that Warden Thomas be suspended until responsibility for the fire had been fixed. Griswold declined to discuss the matter, but Thomas defended himself.

"I am satisfied that everything humanly possible was done to save the prisoners," he said. "I arrived at the prison within a few minutes after discovery of the blaze and shouted to all guards in sight to rush keys from the guard room to the cells. As far as my investigation has gone, I find there were absolutely no shots fired at prisoners by any guard, nor were any of the prisoners mistreated in any way."

If the tentative theory that the fire was incendiary is correct, the convicts failed to accomplish their purpose.

Only one prisoner escaped, Michael Dorn, 33, who calmly donned a civilian suit and walked away at the height of the confusion.

DENNIS KING in "The Vagabond King" a Paramount Picture

Dennis King, who sky-rocketed to fame in the well remembered New York production of Rudolph Friml's operetta, "The Vagabond King," again creates the fascinating role of the dashing Francois Villon in Paramount's enchanting adaptation of this gay musical romance. Photographed throughout by the improved Technicolor process, "The Vagabond King," emerges as captivating entertainment; a beguiling operetta in which lilting melodies of a distinguished and lasting pattern, romance, adventure and breath-taking splendor are blended into harmonious entertainment.

"The Vagabond King" opened a three day engagement at the Paramount theatre last night.

"SHEIK'S WIFE"

BY WINIFRED VAN WIZER

SYNOPSIS.

ENROUTE to a friend's house, young and lovely Eve Reade, meets Kenneth Wilmer, famous artist. He persuades her to visit the Hollies, friends of his before going on to her destination. She falls asleep on a divan, to awake the next morning. Embarrassed for having spent the night, she leaves without saying good-bye. Ken visits her the following Sunday, and tells her he loves her. Her friend, Mary, warns Eve they are unsuited for one another. Next day Eve meets Norwood O'Rell, the author. He invites her to tea.

CHAPTER VIII.

It talked a great while and if the puzzlement failed to leave Eve's mind, he convinced her at least that Mary was all wrong. Mary was narrow; she was one of these afraid to see true. One would have to be a water like Nory or an artist like Ken to understand wholly—but how easily to say there could be no contact between their kind and others!

She spoke of Ken at last. "I've met some of the Lane people, Nory. The Hollies and Kenneth Wilmer."

He gave her a sharp, quick look and the waves of heat burned her from head to toes. "Wilmer? Oh, now I know who you are—"

He knew, she thought in a fury of shame, about last Friday night. Probably everybody knew—everybody in the Lane. Knew that she and Kenneth sat up all night at the Hollies', perhaps that she had gone sneaking away early in the morning like a little tramp hiding from painting fingers, shrinking before living rings.

She got up stiffly, said she must go. "Do come over for tea. You'd like Mary Stewart. . . . And thank you for the afternoon. . . ."

He let her go with a careless nod and she knew the moment her foot was outside the door that he went back to gazing at the ceiling. What did he think about with his eyes so far away? Things he had seen over the battlefields of France? The dream people he put on paper, ones he made live for those who did not know how to dream.

Well—she had had an adventure. She had met Norwood O'Rell and liked him. And she had loved the tea party—all but the end. And now she must go back to Mary. . . .

But Eve wanted to see Ken. All at once it seemed she must see Ken. Hardly knowing what she did she turned eastward, went on down The Lane toward the Hollies'.

In the clear light of late afternoon The Lane was not at all what it had seemed in the soft dimness last Friday night. Their it had been all enchantment, a magic village one entered by some open sesame, a sort of Peter Pan land where everything was eternally young and lovely and all dreams came true.

But now, walking slowly and still more slowly along the narrow unpaved road, it seemed the make-believe was only make-believe after all. Trees to be sure were putting forth satin leaves and shrubs were wrapped in pink and red and golden fragrance, and this was as it should be.

But Eve felt a shiftness about the cottages. When she was a very little girl the uncles had built her a playhouse at one end of the garden; it had been a very nice playhouse but she never could make it seem quite like a real dwelling as the uncles had intended she should.

Now she remembered this old failure, looking at the cottages. And how odd and not quite reasonably they were trimmed up, one with door and window casings painted royal blue and another with black and orange hangings at the windows all out of concord with apple trees over the roof. Why didn't they have just plain little homely weather-brown buildings like Nory O'Rell's?

Disappointment sent her spirits down. Once breathless and tingling she had gone with Mary to the theatre where Mary's actor cousins were playing, only to have her bright hope of a thrill dimmed and crushed. For it was rehearsal afternoon and instead of sparkle and music and beauty there were merely rays of gray-blue light filtering about the edges of drawn blinds, the blank and somewhat dirty reverse sides of "props" and a man with a red face bawling directions at some tired men and women in ordinary street clothes.

The world behind the scenes—morning in Summer amusement parks—near-silk—vener—pose. . . . Eve thought of these miserably.

But suddenly a window above the blue door banged up, a tousled bobbed head was thrust forth and a hand waved in a cheerful way as a voice called "Hello!"

The head was withdrawn and Eve had a chance to answer, but she went on more briskly, heartened by such friendliness.

And then all at once quite as if a curtain had been rolled back between herself and The Lane, Eve saw it clearly for the first time. She saw these people as Mary had said they were—different from herself and others, living in a Land of Illusion. A definite scheme of creation had placed them so and so they must remain, these writers and artists.

But their dreams, no doubt were as real to them as were everyday things to everyday folk. They possessed two worlds, actually, and because this was the fact they were able to take the rest of humanity out of monotony-harassed living and into a fairer realm by means of color spread on canvas or words on a page.

And surely it was of tremendous importance that humanity be amused, helped to escape from life-as-it-is into the magic of life-as-it-might-be.

The vision took away what awoke Eve had felt and filled her thoughts with affection. And this was to remain with her always and to reconcile a heritage of grim New England conscience with the easy tolerance of those who were to be her friends. Also, it was to make possible things which never could have happened to her otherwise.

The Holly cottage was more pretentious than any of the others excepting Nory O'Rell's, and Eve suspected this was because Elma and Chuck were not so thoroughly Bohemian, but that they preferred comfort to picturesqueness. But there was another, more practical reason for the really luxurious furnishings, the gardener at work in a corner of the grounds, the maid who came to light a fire as Elma took her guest into the long east room.

Elma mentioned this reason as she curled her plump figure into a leather chair and lighted a cigarette.

"Of course you'll stay for dinner," she said in her slightly dictatorial manner. "And don't mention both of us! I do not like to get Chuck home before every thing's ruined."

"We're not like some of the crowd," she went on. "I believe in being on a payroll and having Chuck on one too; it's lots simpler than living like millionaires one while and passing the hat the next. 'I suppose,' Eve asked timidly, 'that happens sometimes? I've read about it—writers waiting for stories to be sold—starving in garrets—all that—'"

"Bunk mostly," Elma declared. "All the burning genius stuff. Bad management is what's the trouble with them. Janet Kip down the road here—house with the blue door, did you notice?—well, Jan does really good work when she wants to but she's lazy. She'll sell something and then won't do a tap till the last cent is gone and everybody's tired of having her come around to borrow an egg and a spoonful of flour. Jan's a fool," Elma observed dispassionately. "She'll probably drop in this evening. We don't do much visiting through the day," she explained.

A sort of unwritten law here; work daytimes and play at night. You'd better meet all of us right away and now is as good a time as any."

Eve was willing enough to stay. She telephoned Mary who made no objection to her absence and went back to listen to Elma's talk about the colony, hoping she would mention Kenneth. But presently Chuck Holly arrived and, first giving her a languid hand, draped himself over the settle and demanded a drink, declaring that the damned old rag was going to Hades and he was quitting the job.

Elma laughed tolerantly and called the maid to bring cocktails. "He's a newspaper editor," she told Eve, "and he always talks like that once the paper's gone to press. You couldn't blow him loose from his job with dynamite."

Eve refused a cocktail, so Chuck drank hers as well as his own and he seemed quite rested and gay when a young man and woman ventured in and begged permission to remain for dinner since they asserted they hadn't a thing in the house to eat.

Elma introduced them as Ivy and Pierre Carr, and Eve studied them all through dinner. Ivy might have been pretty and she did seem so discontented. She was sharp-tongued, preoccupied and worried. Her husband, who hardly spoke at all, looked exactly like pictures of Apollo Belvedere, with the same sharply-chiseled, too regular features, the cap of short, tight curls, the vacant expression.

Others happened along almost before they got up from the table. There was Janet Kip, a tousled, homely woman, thirty at least, who wore a batik smock and waved a tremendously long cigarette holder when she talked, together with a roving-eyed youth everyone called "Clay," whom Janet appeared to mother as if he had been a pet chick under her fussy wing.

It was from another guest, who romped in like a small, hot breeze, that Eve was to learn how barred may be the darts of jealousy—from Fifi Devoe, who was like a thin, burning flame before what she wanted.

For Kenneth came to the Hollies that evening. Kenneth came and went to Eve quickly, smiling into her eyes, whispering as she had dreamed he might.

But Fifi Devoe took him away.

319 KILLED IN PENITENTIARY FIRE

upon the wreckage. The roof that had covered all was gone.

The fire had travelled rapidly over this roof from the new cell block, under construction, to the one in which the convicts met their deaths.

Water an inch deep covered cell floors.

A scaffold stood grotesquely up against the side of the cell block. Many saved their lives by climbing down it.

Many crossed the scaffold to the windows of the penitentiary in an unsuccessful effort to beat down the huge bars of the windows.

Narcissa Gaeta, another convict who carried 50 men from the cell block shambles, was discovered shivering in his cell on the third floor by Dr. Geo. W. Keil, chief prison physician. Gaeta was suffering from shock. He has been in the penitentiary since 1923 serving a 10 to 20 year sentence for robbery. His home is in Mexico.

Ben Rudner of Canton, serving a life sentence for complicity in the assassination of Don Mellett, Canton newspaper editor, worked untiringly at a pulmotor reviving men as they were carried from the burning cell block.

Warden P. E. Thomas suspended Guard Thomas Watkins today, pending investigation of charges that Watkins refused to relinquish to other guards keys to cells in which the convicts lost their lives.

The suspension was announced coincident with the arrival of Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, who returned by plane from a Virginia health resort. The governor immediately conferred with Thomas and members of his cabinet.

State Finance Director Harry D. Silver, the executive's spokesman, said later a thorough inquiry will be pushed in an effort to fix responsibility for the blaze and the terrible loss of life. He said the state emergency board, now in session, has ample funds available for a general relief appropriation, and that it would not be necessary to call a special session of the legislature.

The 4,000 convicts who escaped unscathed arose today in cells through which water sloshed an inch deep. The fury of the night had passed and only horror lingered. In the west cell block, where the fire started, little was left except blackened ruins.

County Prosecutor John K. Chester demanded that Warden Thomas be suspended until responsibility for the fire had been fixed. Griswold declined to discuss the matter, but Thomas defended himself.

"I am satisfied that everything humanly possible was done to save the prisoners," he said. "I arrived at the scene within a few minutes after discovery of the blaze and shouted to all guards in sight to rush keys from the guard room to the cells. As far as my investigation has gone, I find there were absolutely no shots fired at prisoners by any guard, nor were any of the prisoners mistreated in any way."

If the tentative theory that the fire was incendiary is correct, the convicts failed to accomplish their purpose.

Only one prisoner escaped, Michael Dorn, 33, who calmly donned a civilian suit and walked away at the height of the confusion.
